High-rise apartment crumbles

BAILEY'S CROSSROADS, Va. (AP) —"I saw the struts holding the two top floors begin to shake. Then the top floor fell into the next one and the building began to split right down the middle."

For 30 seconds or so, continued workman Robert Taylor, the downward movement accelerated as 24 floors of a concrete high-rise apartment under construction caved in one-by-one Friday afternoon.

By today the known death toll was five. Another 10 were missing and feared dead. There were 34 injured. Taylor was not hurt.

What caused the collapse remains in doubt. State and federal investigations are underway.

Rescue operations proceeded cautiously as large chunks of concrete dangled precariously from both sides of the planned 26-story building, among the highest in the Washington, D.C., metropolitan area.

An 80-foot wide section of the building collapsed, leaving other unfinished sections on each side.

"We had about two seconds warning ... a rumbling sound like Niagara Falls," said workman Larry Rivers. "I ran for my life. I looked back and saw four of my buddies being crushed by concrete."

Rivers was working in the basement area. Most of the rubble fell there and atop a two-story concrete parking structure under construction. Officials estimated 55 men were working in those areas. Most of the dead and missing were among them.

Alfred Cole was working on a top floor when the concrete floor around him began cracking. "It sounded like a heavy rainstorm," he said.

Cole and about 25 other workmen began running down the stairs, only to find they were blocked at the eighth

Indians shoot at U.S. lawmen

WOUNDED KNEE, S.D. (AP) — Federal lawmen in armored vehicles patrolled the perimeter of Wounded Knee today as hopes for a quick peace with Sioux Indians who took over the village five days ago dwindled in an outbreak of sporadic gunfire.

Ralph Erickson, a special assistant U.S. attorney general, said late Friday, "FBI agents and marshals are being exposed to gunfire ... Fire seems to be continuing and it causes us concern."

Erickson specified three instances of lawmen being fired on. He said federal agents did not return the gunfire. No injuries were reported by either side.

Erickson also said that talks on Friday with leaders of the American Indian Movement, which led the takeover, were unproductive.

The 200 Indians in the village, most of them Oglala Sioux, entered Wounded Knee late Tuesday, raided a trading post and held 11 persons hostage until midday Thursday.

Erickson said he is not satisfied that the hostages now are free, as AIM leaders declare.

He also said it was difficult to learn during the talks what the Indians want in exchange for laying down their weapons and surrendering. He made clear the Justice Department position that there is no question of amnesty, that charges will be filed against the Indians if violations are found. He said kidnaping is one of the charges being considered.

Inside the Wounded Knee compound, AIM leaders told newsmen they would surrender the historic, one-street village if federal officials placed charges only against leaders of the takeover.

They repeated their demand that the Senate investigate their charges of corruption in the Bureau of Indian Affairs, in the Oglala Tribe and on the Pine Ridge Reservation, where 11,000 of the 13,000-member tribe reside.

Friday's somber mood followed only 12 hours after South Dakota's two senators, George S. McGovern and James Abourezk, assured the Indians every effort would be made to give them a fair hearing.

Erickson said that during his meeting with AIM leaders, Agnes Gildersleeve, 68, an owner of the trading post, and two members of her family accompanied the Indians and told Erickson that they no longer were being held hostage.

Erickson told newsmen, however, that if residents are not being held against their own will, "Why don't they come out?

Nixon urges measures to prevent terrorism

WASHINGTON (AP) — The execution of two American diplomats in Khartoum has brought calls for justice and preventive measures against international terrorism from President Nixon and the U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

Cleo A. Noel Jr. G. Curtis Moore

"It was with the deepest sense of grief that I have learned of the acts of terrorism which took the lives of Ambassador Cleo A. Noel and deputy chief of mission George Curtis Moore," Nixon said Friday night.

"The United States is emphasizing its strong feeling that the perpetrators of this crime must be brought to justice."

Moore and Noel were executed by members of the Black September terrorist group about 26 hours after the terrorists broke into the Saudi Arabian Embassy.

"This tragic event underscores once again the need for all nations to take a firm stand against the menace of international terrorism," Nixon said in a statement released from the White House.

The recently named U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, John Scali, said the executions represented a new "demand on the U.N. community for meaningful and effecuve action to halt international terrorist acts."

The assembly in December blocked U.S. and Western Proposals for preparation of a treaty providing for the punishment or extradition of international terrorists. It voted instead for study proposals sponsored by Arab, African and Asian countries.

The terrorists originally had demanded the release of Sirhan B. Sirhan, who was convicted of assassinating Robert F. Kennedy, and the release of various members of the organization held in Jordan, Israel and Germany.

After the killings, Secretary of State William P. Rogers released a statement, saying "no words can express our shock and grief at the senseless and barbarous murder."

The executions were the latest of some 50 terrorist incidents aimed at American officials abroad in recent years.

Noel, 54, was a veteran U.S. foreign service officer who only recently had arrived in Khartoum. The Sudan and the United States had restored relations last summer, and Moore had been the American representative in Khartoum until Noel's arrival.

A native of Oklahoma, he joined the foreign service in 1949 and was a specialist in Middle East affairs.

He married the former Lucille McHenry.

Moore, 47, had been scheduled to leave Khartoum next Monday to be reassigned with the foreign service.

He began his career with the State Department in 1950 as a resident officer in Frankfurt, Germany.

He married the former Sarah Stewart.

The Noels have two children: John Francis, 20, who is studying at American University in Washington and staying with a foreign service family here; and Janet, 18, a student at Oberlin College in Ohio.

Noel's widow accompanied him to Khartoum but didn't attend the reception.

Guerrillas' demands rejected

KHARTOUM, Sudan, (AP) — The Palestinian guerrillas who executed two American diplomats and shot a Belgian envoy demanded safe passage out of Sudan today with the two Arab diplomats they still hold captive, and the Sudanese government immediately rejected the demand.

Egypt's Middle East News Agency said the Black September commands asked the Sudanese government to supply a plane and send along a senior official as a "guarantee for our safety." There were no immediate indication where they wanted to go.

The Sudanese government immediately rejected their demands and ordered the guerrillas instead to hand over the captive Arab diplomats and the bodies of the envoys slain Friday night.

They were Cleo A. Noel Jr., the new U.S. ambassador to Sudan, and the outgoing U.S. charge d'affaires, G. Curtis Moore. The Sudanese government said the guerrillas claimed they also killed the Belgian charge d'affaires, Guy Eid.

The bodies and the two Arab hostages were still in the Saudi Arabian Embassy, where the seven Palestinian terrorists have been holding out since bursting into a farewell reception Thursday night for Moore.

Sudanese authorities began evacuating a four-block area around the Saudi Embassy. Soldiers said they were preparing for "a military operation" to recover the bodies and free the captive diplomats.

But U.S. Embassy informants said the

Bulgarian airliner crashes in Russia

MOSCOW (AP) — A Balkan Airlines Ilyushin 18, carrying 17 passengers and eight crewmen, crashed near the western fringe of Sheremetyevo airport today as it was approaching on a flight from Sofia, Western airline sources reported.

Tass said: "The crew and passengers died."

An official of a Western airline said Sheremetyevo's instrument landing system was not working at the time of the crash and the pilot was making his approach manually.

The weather was clear.

Tass said the Civil Aviation Ministry had set up a commission to investigate the cause of the crash.

It was the third crash of an airliner at Sheremetyevo in five months.

An Ilyushin 62 of the Soviet state airline, Aeroflot, crashed near Sheremetyevo on Oct. 13, killing all 176 persons aboard. It was the worst air crash in civil aviation history.

A Japan Airlines DC8 crashed Nov. 28 at the international airport, about 25 miles northwest of Moscow. Sixty-two people perished in that crash.

An Austrian Airlines spokesman said the Balkan airliner crashed around 1 p.m.

Boston schools lose aid

BOSTON (AP) — Boston has some schools that are almost all black and others that are almost all white — a situation federal officials say was intentional.

So Boston became on Friday the first city outside the South to be cut off from federal education funds, a loss for the school system of more than $7 million this year.

A issue is what amounts to two parallel school systems, one in black areas, the other in white. Transferring between the two is difficult, complicated by limited openings and incompatible grade structures, authorities say.

The city says all of this came about by accident. The U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare says it was premeditated.

The two systems emerged in 1967, when the Boston School Committee announced that it was phasing out its traditional junior high schools and establishing middle schools.

At that time, all of the city had junior highs with grades 7-9 and high schools with grades 10-12. The new middle schools had grades 6-8 and the high schools 9-12.

The school committee said the new organization would make it easier to achieve racial balance and better accommodate youngsters reaching maturity earlier. It said it would set up middle schools all over the city and do away with junior highs.

But the middle schools got only as far as the black ghettoes, and then the changeover stopped.

At the same time, the school committee set up complex patterns under which elementary schools in white neighborhoods fed into junior highs, and elementary schools in black areas fed into middle schools.

The middle schools, in turn, fed into four-year high schools and the junior highs into three-year high schools.

Pupils were allowed to transfer to high schools outside their areas, but they were restricted by space. Preference for admission was given to pupils who lived near the high schools.

Tranferring was also made difficult because the grade groupings were different.

Martin H. Gerry, an assistant director for special programs in HEW, testified before an HEW administrative judge that the school committee was willing to make exceptions to its feeder school plan when it allowed white students to escape black schools and go to predominantly white schools.

But whenever there was a chance that a school would send white students into the black system or send black students into the white system, the school committee created special feeder patterns to inhibit integration, he said.

The judge, Lawrence M. Ring, ordered that all federal funds be cut off on the grounds Boston operates a dual school system in violation of the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

POW arrival in Philippines to be televised

NEW YORK (AP) The CBS television network plans live coverage Sunday of the arrival of released American prisoners of war at Clark Air Base in the Philippines.

NBC and ABC have announced they will cover the arrival on film or videotape and show the pictures later in the day.

A CBS spokesman said Friday the network expected live coverage would run from about 3 to 5 a.m. EST Sunday. Taped highlights will be broadcast from 10 to 11 a.m. EST.

NBC said it will fly its film to Hong Kong for transmission to this country by satellite and will show it on the Today Show Monday morning.

ABC said its film of prisoners' return would be shown on news programs.

them a 20-14 lead. The lead was maintained at four points for most of the game.

Kelley gave the Patriots an 8-point bulge with 5:40 left when he hit a 10 foot jumper. Bill Garvey sandwiched a pair of free throws and 20 foot jumper around a 3-point play by Dave Thiel to cut the East lead to one, 42-41, with 3:55 left.

Kelley, however, connected on an eight foot jumper and then got an inside handoff from Paul Callaway for a lay in and a 46-41 lead. That put the game pretty much away, although 2:21 remained.

Callaway, a 6-6 sophomore, enjoyed his best all-around performance of the season. He scored 10 points and cleared seven rebounds, neither of which were season highs, but played much steadier defense and was aware where the open man was as he made some key assists. In return, Kelley early in the game would draw the defense and then lob a lead pass to Callaway cutting to the basket for an easy two.

For East, Mark Bleier tossed in 10 points and had a sound defensive and floor game. Vandenberg, shooting 6 for 11, scored 13 points and had six rebounds. Kelley added 13 points, on 6 of 9 shooting, and picked off five missed shots. Craig Martin, one of the smallest men on the floor, had four rebounds.

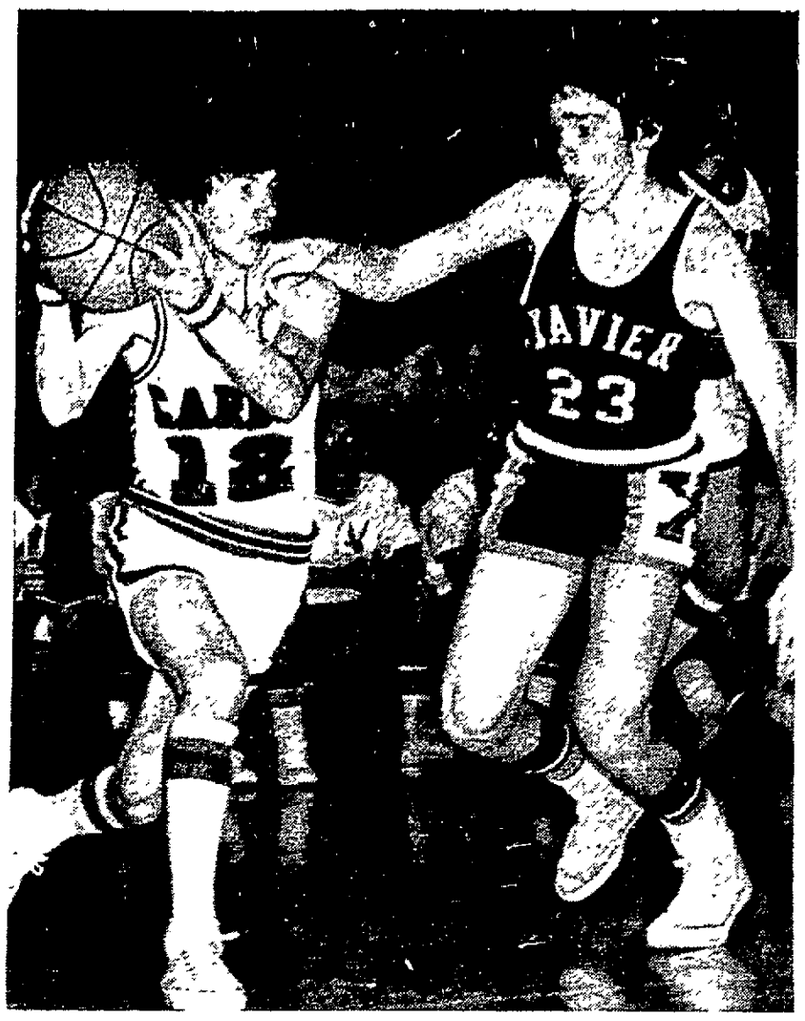

Garvey, who didn't start, scored 15 points for the Terrors and showed great accuracy on long distance shots. Carl Joosten contributed 14 points, but East kept him screened away from the boards as he claimed just one rebound.

East connected on 18 of 37 from the floor, and West 19 of 39.

Beloit posts 62 to 59 victory over Lawrence

By Steve Mc Creedy

The Beloit College Buccaneers, fighting for a share of second place in the Midwest Conference behind undefeated Coe College kept those hopes alive by eeking out a 62-59 victory over the Lawrence University Vikings in Alexander Gymnasium Friday night.

Beloit, now 8-5, is battling for second place with Ripon, St. Olaf, and Knox. With the loss Lawrence dropped to 1-12.

The game was close throughout as neither team could build a big lead On the opening play of the game Buccaneer Larry Johnson was fouled in the act of shooting and sank both free tosses to give BC the first lead. The Vikes came back up the floor and tied it up (2-2) on a 25 foot jumper by Jerry Percak. Bob Currie gave LU its first lead (4-2) the next time the Vikes got the ball as he went high in the air to tip in an errant Lawrence shot.

The lead continued to see-saw back and forth as both teams slowed down their offenses and looked for the open shots. With 12:00 on the clock Lawrence's Doug Fyfe dropped in a lay up to make it 10-6 Lawrence. With 11:34 remaining 6-8 McLenty Robinson, generally a starter for BC but on the bench in the early going for disciplinary reasons, came in and helped Beloit to five straight points to make it 11-10 Beloit.

The lead changed hands until, with 6:34 left and the score 21-21, Robinson went above the crowd and tipped the ball three times off the back board before plunking it down through the hoop. He got another counter and Buc Bill Moore hit a baseline jumper to make it 27-21. LU came back with two buckets before BC added four more. Then with 0:10 in the half Moore broke away for an easy lay up to make it 35-27 at intermission.

The second half opened with Steve Sims canning a lay up off a feed by Fyfe. Fyfe, playing some hustling defense intercepted a Buc pass and took it all the way to close the gap to four (35-31). Sims hit a long jumper, Percak connected from the base line and Currie banged in a jumper. Beloit countered with two free throws by Tom Lambretti and a lay up by Roger Henry to make the score 39-37 Beloit.

Finally with 11:23 showing and the score 41-40 Beloit, the Vikes caused a turnover and took the ball down and grabbed the lead on a 16 foot jump shot by Percak. Beloit missed its chance and Currie added another bucket to LU's slim lead (44-41). Sims banked in a driving lay up over Robinson before Beloit made its bid for the lead.

Three quick buckets

With the score 46-41 LU, Beloit got three quick buckets including another tip in by Robinson to steal the lead 47-46.

Lawrence missed its next two attempts but kept Beloit from converting too. At the 6:32 mark LU's Jack Hoag cut the nets from 22 feet out to put the Vikes back on top 48-47.

The lead didn't last long though, Henry connected on two free shots to hand Beloit the lead for good, (49-48).

Lawrence stayed close until with 3:21 on the clock Beloit ripped off six straight points to make the gap seven (57-50) with 1:17 left.

The difference in the game came at the free throw line. Beloit connected on 16 of 24 charity throws while Lawrence was only allowed 12 and hit nine of those. Lawrence hit 42% from the floor canning 25 of 59. Beloit turned in a 46% performance with 23 of 49. Beloit also copped most of the rebounds, snatching 41 to Lawrence's 30.

High point man for the game was Lawrence's Sims. He totaled 17 points on seven buckets and three free throws. Also in double figures for LU were Bob Currie with 15 and Percak with 14.

Leading the way for Beloit was Henry, who garnered 16, Lambretti with 14, Robinson with 14, and Johnson with 11.

"We were terrible. They were good," a disappointed Einerson said. "They came to play. We didn't. You've got to want to play, that's the name of the game. They wanted to play the game and they took it," he added.

Although there weren't too many good things to talk about, Einerson did single out Johnson for his performance. "He has been outstanding all year. You couldn't ask for anything more from a boy than what he gave us," the coach concluded.

Johnson closed his career by scoring 10 baskets to lead the Neenah offense. He also grabbed 13 rebounds.

"It was a great team victory," North Coach Tom Wagner declared. He said when Naslund picked up his third foul in the first quarter and was taken out, it seemed to draw the team together.

"We were patient and took the good shots. We didn't give them the fast break and also did a good job against their press," the former Mid-Eastern Conference scoring champion (at Shawano) added.

"We really hustled and were ready for play," Wagner continued. He had praise for all seven boys he used, but mentioned Naslund, of whom he said come on strong in the second half, John Schuttenhelm for his outside shooting, the clutch free throwing of Boese and Flood and Bill Hickyes's rebounding.

"We'll have to do another good job tomorrow," Wagner answered, when questioned about Appleton East. "They're really tall. We'd like to run on them because of their size and will have to keep the backboards away from them," he concluded.

Naslund led the Spartans in scoring with 20 points while Schuttenhelm hit 18, Flood 12 and Kickey 10. Kreklow and Madsen each notched 10 for the runnerup Neenah laurels.

Weyauwega ousted in Class B

Amherst meets Auburndale '5'

WEYAUWEGA — Amherst and Auburndale advanced into the WIAA Class B regional finals Friday with identical 63-49 victories over Plainfield and Weyauwega, respectively.

Amherst (15-5) and Auburndale (3-18) play at 7:30 p.m. tonight for a berth in the Stevens Point Sectional.

Auburndale made it three tourney wins in a row as Mike Lieble volleyed in 11 straight free throws and added nine field goals for 29 points.

Auburndale held a 19-12 edge in rebounding. Turnovers took an early toll on the Indians and then fouls mounted the score in the final period as they tried to get control of the ball. Auburndale netted 17 points at the foul line in the last segment.

Mike Rohde was the only Weyauwega player in doubles with 16 points. Cary Schmies added 9.

Auburndale shot at a 54 percent clip, while Weyauwega connected on 47 percent of its shots from the floor.

Gillman given 5-year Oiler managing contract

By MICHALE A. LUTZ
Associated Press Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Sid Gillman, the new Houston Oiler general manager, says he's going to disprove what all of his and Bud Adams' friends are saying.

"Bud's friends and my friends are all saying 'those two guys aren't going to get along for six months,'" Gillman said Friday after Adams, the team's owner, named him general manager with a five-year contract.

"But I want to assure you that they are wrong. We've had battles in the past, but I've battled everybody," the strong-willed Gillman said. "That's the nature of the profession. You don't have too many friends on the football field."

Adams and Gillman admitted they had feuded over the years but that won't be a problem anymore. Adams said Gillman would have full control of the National Football League Oilers.

"With Sid Gillman as general manager, all decisions that are made will be made by him," Adams said. "I'll be watching with keen interest but the full authority will be Sid Gillman's."

Gillman, 61, replaces John Breen as general manager. Breen, who has been with the Oilers since their beginning in 1959, announced his retirement although he was offered another job in the Adams organization.

"Houston is a great city with great football interest," said Gillman. "There's just no reason why we shouldn't win and win consistently."

Gillman was coach and general manager of the San Diego Chargers for 11 years and spent last season as an assistant coach with the Dallas Cowboys. He says he will not do any coaching for the Oilers but will assist Coach Bill Peterson in any technical way he might be asked.

Bays sign Aaron Brown

GREEN BAY — It was 8:30 Friday morning and Aaron Brown was having a leisurely breakfast with his family.

His massive proportions dwarfing a straightback chair, he nursed a cup of coffee at a corner table in the Lombardi Room of The Forum as he waited for Packer aide Burt Gustafson to join him.

When, he was asked, might he make the big decision — whether to retire or sign a Packer contract?

Exhibiting a relaxed smile," he replied, "I have a lot of time, so I might as well take it."

Brown, who had asked the Chiefs to trade him to the Vikings because he felt his Minneapolis business demanded his year-around presence, obviously was in no hurry at that point.

But he reckoned without the persuasive powers of Dan Devine. Less than seven hours later, following a lengthy "heart-to-heart" in the privacy of DD's Lombardi Avenue office, the Packer coach emerged to announce that Brown had signed a "multi-year" contract.

In keeping with Packer custom, the length and terms of the pact were not divulged.

Devine, patently elated at this surprising turnof events, promptly asserted, "Aaron is not only a quality player but also a first rate human being. And I can assure you he will be a real plus for this team.

Probably wet

Rain is forecast today over much of the Northeast, West Coast states and the Mississippi River Valley. There will be cold temperatures through the Pacific Northwest and the northern Great Lakes. (AP Wirephoto Map)

The sun may shine Sunday

Partly cloudy tonight with the low in the low 30s. Partly sunny and mild on Sunday with the high in the upper 40s. Winds will be light and variable both tonight and Sunday. Precipitation probabilities are 10 per cent tonight and 5 per cent on Sunday.

Forecasters in Green Bay say that a weak Pacific cold front is approaching Wisconsin from the west and should bring strong enough winds to lift the fog blanket that has covered the state for the last two days. This front is expected late today or early Sunday. Temperatures will continue to be above seasonal averages. Sunshine is expected on Sunday or Monday.

Sunset today at 5:44 p.m. Sunrise tomorrow at 6:27 a.m.

The moon is now a thin crescent rising in the morning twilight. The planet Venus is five degrees south of the moon as it rises but too near the sun to be seen. Venus is now about the same distance from the Earth as Mars.

Bruins clinch title

By MIKE RUBIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It's a good thing UCLA Coach John Wooden doesn't get tired of winning. His top-ranked Bruins have now won their 11th Pacific-8 Conference basketball title in the last 12 years and a chance to defend their sixth consecutive national championship.

"No, it's never old hat to win the conference," Wooden nodded Friday night after the Bruins easily whipped California 90-65 for their sixth straight Pac-8 crown and 69th straight victory.

"I'm pleased that we've clinched the conference because it's always my first objective," said Wooden.

"I believe it's realistic to think about winning the conference, but not the national championship" when setting team goals, said Wooden, who is in his 25th season at UCLA.

The victory continued an incredible series that has seen UCLA lose the league title only once since 1962. The Bruins have also won the National Collegiate Athletic Association championship the last six years and eight out of the last nine. The lone exception was 1966.

UCLA is now 24-0 overall this season and 12-0 in the Pac-8. The Bruins haven't lost a conference game since 1970.

The current Bruin crew is called the "Walton Gang" after their dominating junior center, big Bill Walton.

Keith Wilkes and Walton led UCLA scoring, each with 15 points.

The Bruins can't relax yet—they play Stanford tonight, and their league finale is next Friday night against USC.

Allin holds 'Citrus' lead

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Buddy Allin, a skinny little guy with freckles and a mop of red hair, indicated he wasn't thinking too seriously about winning the $150,000 Citrus Open Golf Tournament—even though he held the midway lead.

His 65 Friday gave him a 36-hole total of 131—13 under par for two rounds over the 6,928-yard Rio Pinar Country Club course.

"I'd like to get some high finishes, then start thinking about winning a tournament. I want to make some good checks, get my game in shape, then if I'm in this position again I make a charge at it."

While Allin, a 28-year-old former artillery officer who collected four decorations in Vietnam, was charting his plans, Arnold Palmer left, was a victim of the cut.

Allin, who twice reeled off strings of three consecutive birdies, held only a single stroke lead over Gibby Gilbert.

Gilbert, who shared the first round lead with Chi Chi Rodriguez, slipped from a 64 to 68 for 132, one stroke back.

Rodriguez went to a 70 and was alone in third place at 134.

Australian Bruce Crampton, who's already taken two titles this season and leads the money winning list, moved into contention with a strong 66 for 136. He was tied with rookie Tom Kite and Dave Hill.

Lee Trevino, winner of last week's rich Jackie Gleason tournament, moved up with a 67 and was seven strokes off the pace at 138. Sam Snead was just one stroke further back after a 69.

Stoltz, Van Nuys win all-CSC honors

Joe Onesti (Bowler), Dave Swinehart (Necedah) and Pete Peterson (Port Edwards) are unanimous choices for all-conference basketball honors in the Central States Conference.

Onesti led the league in scoring with 359 points.

Others named from title-winning Port Edwards were Mike Klein and Pat Martinson. Representing Amherst are Rick Stoltz and John Van Nuys. Stoltz was the league's second leading point-maker with 358 points.

Also named to the 11-man squad were Jim Bowles (Rosholt), Pete Bartsch (Granton) and Brian Jump (Necedah).

All players are seniors except Bowles and Jump, who are juniors.

Jerry Paulson hits 199-538

Jerry Paulson hit a 199 game and 538 series for the Junior Boys at Hahn's Lanes last weekend.

Dan Wulterkens had 199-520, Andy Van Herwyven hit 197-522 and Jim Mortell rolled 501.

For the Bantam Boys, Jeff Cherney had 167, Randy Kunstman 157 and Gordon Reistad 153. Kathy Petresko had a 163 to pace the Bantam Girls.

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Heart limits amount of activity for aged

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a woman in my early 70s and have developed heart failure. I feel fair and think my doctor has done a really good thing with me.

I want to know if there is some kind of exercise and a diet that would build my heart and body.—Mrs. F.P.

"Heart failure" like a good many other conditions has to be viewed in the sense of how severe it is. A person can be "lame," and it can mean that he limps or it can mean that he can't walk at all.

So it is with heart failure. There is some damage to your heart; there has to be some limitation on the amount of physical exertion you can tolerate. You have, in other words, a decrease in the reserve power in your heart which you formerly could call on when you needed it.

Just how much exercise you can and should have is something that I can't specify as well as your doctor can because I haven't examined you, haven't run tests on you and haven't had a chance to see how soon you start to huff and puff when you do exercise.

As a general rule, when you feel short of breath from exertion, or if you feel your heart start to labor, it's a sign that you've had enough exertion and it is time to rest. Certainly never let yourself get to the point of feeling faint or starting to black out. Then you've gone too far!

My answer has to be: Exercise—but stay inside those limits.

Don't look for some particular type of exercise that is going to help your heart. So far as your heart is concerned, exercise is exercise. Your heart provides circulation for all of your body, and it can't tell the difference if the exercise involves your legs or some other part of your body. It's the amount that matters.

Just walking is the best and safest exercise we can offer a patient. Whether you should be allowed to go up and down stairs depends on whether a flight of stairs leaves you out of breath. As to calisthenics or any more violent exercise, I would be inclined to say no, but in the final analysis it depends on the same rule. Does it quickly leave you huffing and puffing?

About diet, view it much the same way. There's no special diet that is "good for your heart." A balanced diet that gives your body the nutrition it needs, without any excess calories, is the only answer. There are no particular foods that are "good for your heart," anymore than there are foods that are "good for your feet."

If you are overweight, by all means eat so as to lose the excess pounds. That will help your heart by giving it less work to do.

If you are lean, stay that way.

In some cases of heart failure, salt is restricted, but the need for that restriction depends on whether your body is accumulating excess fluid. Edema, that is.

If your doctor has told you not to use table salt, obey him. If he hasn't, then just use a small amount.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: In medical programs on TV I hear the term STAT. I can tell by the situation that it means to hurry, or immediately, but what do the initials really stand for? Is the term actually used in real hospitals? —V.T.M.

Yes, the term is commonly used. Those aren't initials, though. "Stat" is an abbreviation of the Latin word "statim," meaning at once or immediately.

Much heart trouble is preventable. Write to Thosteson in care of The Post-Crescent for a copy of his booklet, "How to Take Care of Your Heart!" enclosing a long, self-addressed (use ZIP code), stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

River diversion permit shifted to new owner

MADISON — The permit to divert water from the Shioc River in Outagamie County for irrigation that had been issued to William G. Grunwald of Black Creek has been transferred to Ronald Nelson, the new owner of the lands involved in the authorization, the state Department of Natural Resources reports.

'The World in 1972' offered at Post-Crescent

THE WORLD IN 1972, ninth volume in a series of news annuals, is now off press and available to readers of The Post-Crescent.

The handsome, red-bound book, available to readers for $4.95, chronicles the major and minor news events of the year in hundreds of photographs and tens of thousands of words of text.

This was the year in which President Nixon made his summit visits to Communist China and the Soviet Union, paving the way for the cease-fire in Vietnam.

Like its predecessors, this volume has captured the drama and suspense of the world's history-making events.

In addition to the Nixon summits with the two Communist powers, the other top stores of 1972, as rated by The Associated Press, included the following:

— The attempted assassination of Gov. George C. Wallace as he campaigned for the presidency.

— Terror at the summer Olympics.

— President Nixon's re-election.

— Henry A. Kissinger and his mission to end the war.

— Sen. Thomas Eagleton and the Democratic vice presidential candidacy.

— The Vietnam war.

— Flooding that killed hundreds in West Virginia, South Dakota, Pennsylvania and seven other states.

— Supreme Court ruling on capital punishment.

Each major story is covered in a separate article of several thousand words with photographs of the events as they occurred. The writing is concise and to the point with enough interpretation to put the events in focus.

It was a year that saw the death of a number of famous figures including Harry S Truman, James Byrnes, J. Edgar Hoover, the Duke of Windsor and Jackie Robinson.

Nixon called his seven-day visit to China "the week that changed the world." His talks with Chairman Mao Tse-tung and Premier Chou En-lai broke a vacuum in Sino-American relations that had lasted for 22 years. In its wake a spirit of detente swept the Far East, with India and Pakistan attempting to resolve their long-standing differences and the two Koreas agreeing to talk over their dispute of more than two decades.

The book is well indexed with the news chronology and a brief almanac section listing members of Congress, sports champions, governors, cities and awards in the book and theater worlds. It also contains a special 16-page map section in color.

Promoted as adult night, there will be live musical entertainment, games, food and refreshments. "Family Day" will start at noon Sunday with various activities for all ages. A box lunch social will be held together with a country store, bake sale, handicraft booth and other events. Free baby sitting will be offered by girls of the parish.

Oshkosh Country Club leveled by fire

OSHKOSH — Fire in the dense fog early this morning leveled the Oshkosh Country Club, 11 Ripple Road, since 1918 the headquarters of this city's oldest private golf club.

Officials said the state fire marshal has been called in to investigate evidence that arson may have been involved.

Loss of building and contents were being estimated at some $150,000. Both were insured.

A neighbor, Mrs. Terrance Oldani, 12 Ripple Rd., reported the fire at 1:35 a.m. The Van Dyne Volunteer Fire Department used water from a nearby creek, Lake Winnebago, and its tanks to battle the blaze which was already sending flames 10 to 15 feet into the air when the equipment arrived.

Van Dyne Fire Chief Orville Bergman said dense fog early this morning probably kept passersby from seeing the flames earlier. There was a standby truck still at the scene at 9 a.m., but most of the equipment had returned to quarters by 5 a.m., the chief said.

Sheriff's officers investigating the scene soon after the alert reported footsteps in the snow leading to the main doors from the driveway and possible evidence of a forced entry. A pane of glass was broken next to the lock in one door, and the door was unlocked when the officer tried it.

Bergman rated the 80 by 120 foot, two story building a total loss. Value estimates were still being calculated this morning.

Club president W. M. Walton had reportedly called a noon meeting today to begin the club's annual membership drive. The club has a membership of some 175.

Oshkosh Country Club was incorporated in May, 1899, as the Algoma Country Club and acquired a course, which is now the municipal course, in 1900.

The club moved to the Ripple Road location in June, 1918, and became the Oshkosh Country Club.

The property was the former Weyerhorst Farm and included a house which became the basis for the main clubhouse. It had since been modeled and enlarged several times.

Rerouting on Lawe Street bridge may be permanent

KAUKAUNA — A rerouting of traffic necessitated by the closing of the Lawe Street bridge may be made permanent when the bridge reopens if Police Chief William Nagel and some other city officials can sell the idea to the city council.

The closing of the bridge resulted in Maple Street being made a one-way street going east and Oak Street a one-way street going west. The flow of traffic has been continuing so smoothly that police feel it may be a good idea to continue the pattern.

The bridge closing also resulted in local banks agreeing to collect light and water bills, formerly payable only at the electric and water utility offices on Main Avenue. This has been working out well and it is expected that the utility will request banks to continue the service.

Work on the bridge is proceeding rapidly and the span is expected to be open for traffic by the end of the month. Engineers from the State Highway Department, in charge of repair work, indicated that the bridge might be open by March 17 barring any interruptions of construction.

Repair work is being handled by county crews and if heavy snow or other county requirements necessitate removal of men from the repair project, the March 31 opening would result.

ABORTION: Right or Wrong

The Case in Against-

BY ANN ROPELLA

Abortion has been a pretty hot subject for the past several years, and as the momentum of the pro-abortion and the anti-abortion movements increased, it seemed that everyone was taking a stand.

Lately, the pro-abortion groups have gained a victory with the Supreme Court ruling that legalized abortions.

'We...sit back and condone the butchering being done legally and illegally...'—clergymen

According to this ruling a woman can do as she wishes with her body. She has the legal right to abort her baby for her own mental and physical health because it is a part of her body that she's dealing with.

But is this fetus really part of her body or is it a separate being? Biologically, this child has an entirely different genetic make-up than that of it's mother. It is a separate growing organism and because of this, the child's right to live is greater than any right the mother has to abort it.

To many people, the fetus is just a "glob of protoplasm," until the mother can actually feel it move. The movement can usually be felt around the 20th week, when in actuality the skeletal movements of the unborn child begin during the sixth week. More important than this, though, is the fact that the unborn baby's heart begins to beat between the 18th and 25th day, and electrical brain waves have been recorded as early as 43 days. All of the body systems are present by the eighth week and functioning by the 11th week.

Dr. and Mrs. J.C. Wilke have written a book entitled " Handbook on Abortion," that answers many frequently asked questions about abortions.

Though definitely slanted toward the anti-abortion side, it really makes the reader stop and think about the abortion issue. Abortions by the dilatation and curettage, suction, hysterotomy and saline poisoning methods are pictured and the impact they project upon the reader causes him to question what type of person could actually take the life of one of these "globs of protoplasm."

For those unfamiliar with the aforementioned procedures the dilatation and curettage method entails cutting the placenta and the baby into pieces and scraping them into a basin. The bleeding is usually profuse. A hollow plastic tube, attached to a powerful sucking device, is inserted into the uterus in the suction method. This tears the baby and placenta into pieces that are sucked into a bottle. A hysterotomy is like a Caesarian section. The baby and placenta are lifted out through an incision in the abdomen and discarded. According to the handbook one surgeon who performed a hysterotomy removed a baby who breathed, moved his arms and legs, and tried to cry—the doctor placed the placenta on top of the baby and smothered it. The saline method is usually used after the 16th week. The concentrated salt solution is injected into the amniotic fluid, causing the baby to convulse and die. About a day later the mother goes into labor and is delivered of a dead baby, said the book. These methods have been compared by local clergymen to the tortures practiced upon prisoners in wartime concentration camps. These people's lives were seized, said clergymen, because they were "undesirable." Isn't this the same reason that women have abortions, because the baby is undesirable? We cried "Inhuman!," at Hitler's butchering practices, yet sit back and condone the butchering being done legally and illegally, in hospitals and clinics, said the clergymen.

If we establish a date at which human life is viable what is to prevent us from changing that set date? Will we become a society in which we have the right do do away with any life that is "useless?" Whose fault will it beif ours becomes a society in which human life is no longer the sacred object it once was,? ask clergymen.

Some say that it is best to leave the decision to abort up to the mother. She evidently has her reasons, whatever they c may be; and this brings us to the question of why women request abortions.

Why do women seek abortions? Many use abortions as a back up form of birth control. After conception it is too late to use any other type of contraceptive, and if a woman feels she can't possibly cope with this responsibility, the only apparent way out is an abortion.

Perhaps if more women would try counseling, instead of rushing off to an abortion clinic, more of them would realize how really valuable the life of their child is.

Junior Achievement newspaper staff writers Ann Ropella and Steve King present a joint report on the issue of abortion now facing young persons in the Fox Valley. They have discussed the issue with organized groups both in favor of abortion and against it, with clergymen, doctors, and with young people in the area. The opinions are not, necessarily, those of the writers.

The Case in Favor-

lawmakers determine what is morally right for someone they don't even know?" asks Mrs. West. She said it is beyond her comprehension how they could do this.

"If they start imposing laws which determine what a woman's personal morals regarding abortion are, what will come next?" asks Mrs. West.

The Supreme Court has struck down

'...any interest of the State in protecting the woman... has largely disappeared...'—Justice Blackmun

BY STEVE KING

Indeed, abortion has been a hot subject lately, especially in the wake of the Supreme Court ruling in favor of abortion. Now it seems as though the anti-abortionists in Madison and Washington want to overturn the Supreme Court ruling via a Constitutional amendment.

There is some opposition to this, of course, even in the Fox Valley—silent as it may seem to be. According to Mrs. Emily M. West of the Wisconsin Committee to Legalize Abortion, abortion is a moral decision to be made by the mother, for herself, and morality cannot be legislated.

But still state and federal lawmakers persist in their quest to legislate the the abortion issue. "How can a body of most states' old, archaic, laws concerning abortion. It was a brilliant decision, with the Court merely taking a conservative, legal, viewpoint of the laws. The major reason for the Supreme Court's decision was that it is now medically safe to perform an abortion, for the state laws used this excuse for banning abortions.

As Justice Harry Blackmun wrote of abortion, "although not without its risks, (it) is now is now relatively safe," and so, " any interest of the state in protecting the woman from an inherently hazardous procedure...has largely disappeared."

Most of the state abortion laws were not passed until the mid-nineteenth century, though, when it was medically unsafe to have an abortion.

The most commonly used battle cry another human being, or a living person, until it is viable, or can survive outside the mother's body.

The unborn, in most cases, has no chance of surviving outside the mother's body during the first four or six months. So abortion simply cannot be murder during the early months of pregnancy.

Abortion is a moral question. And, according to Mrs. West, "Morality cannot be legislated."

of the antiabortionists is that abortion is murder. This is probably a matter of opinion. To commit murder, someone or some person must be killed. If there isn't a person killed, than it's obviously not murder.

So, the question is: when is the unborn another human being? According to Emily West, the unborn is not

Will Evaders Face the Issue?

BY STEVE KING

Now that American involvement in the war in Vietnam is virtually over the question of amnesty for draft evaders arises.

Currently, there are as many as 70,000 draft resisters and deserters living in exile, while another 10,000 are in jails or on probation in the United States. Anti-war groups claim that another 80,000 resisters disappear annually in the U.S. underground. According to Dee Knight, co-editor of an exiles' magazine, AMEX, the peak for draft resisters was during 1968-69, and the peak for deserters was 1970-71. These people are in a number of places, including Europe, Canada, and the United States underground.

Many people are dead set against amnesty, for a number of reasons. Some feel that the draft evaders are plain cowards and traitors, while others, whose relatives and friends were killed, feel that the ones who ran should not get away scot-free.

The general attitude of most exiles appears to be that they want to come home and once again lead a normal life. They don't think they should have to do alternate service, either. They made a moral decision, they say, and shouldn't be punished for it, as alternate service is a form of punishment, according to resisters. They feel they have suffered enough just being in exile as long as they have been.

And, indeed, it would be a break with precedent. Especially when you consider that the country was at stake in other wars but not during fighting in Vietnam.

But it does seem that if some sort of amnesty is not granted, this country will be torn apart even more, and that is certainly not what we need, especially considering what our President refers to as "a generation of peace."

So, all these, plus other factors must be considered before any amnesty is granted at all. Not many people would be inclined to grant amnesty while the North Vietnamese still have some of our men in their prison camps, either.

Ultimately, there are many routes to take when it comes to the question of amnesty: blanket amnesty, i.e., unconditional amnesty; amnesty with a provision for alternate service; no amnesty, and other possible solutions

High-rise apartment crumbles

BAILEY'S CROSSROADS, Va. (AP) —"I saw the struts holding the two top floors begin to shake. Then the top floor fell into the next one and the building began to split right down the middle."

For 30 seconds or so, continued workman Robert Taylor, the downward movement accelerated as 24 floors of a concrete high-rise apartment under construction caved in one-by-one Friday afternoon.

By today the known death toll was five. Another 10 were missing and feared dead. There were 34 injured. Taylor was not hurt.

What caused the collapse remains in doubt. State and federal investigations are underway.

Rescue operations proceeded cautiously as large chunks of concrete dangled precariously from both sides of the planned 26-story building, among the highest in the Washington, D.C., metropolitan area

An 80-foot wide section of the building collapsed, leaving other unfinished sections on each side.

"We had about two seconds warning ... a rumbling sound like Niagara Falls," said workman Larry Rivers "I ran for my life. I looked back and saw four of my buddies being crushed by concrete."

Rivers was working in the basement area Most of the rubble fell there and atop a two-story concrete parking structure under construction. Officials estimated 55 men were working in those areas. Most of the dead and missing were among them.

Alfred Cole was working on a top floor when the concrete floor around him began cracking. "It sounded like a heavy rainstorm," he said.

Cole and about 25 other workmen began running down the stairs, only to find they were blocked at the eighth

The bunker and steeple

Indians shoot at U.S. lawmen

WOUNDED KNEE, S D (AP) — Federal lawmen in armored vehicles patrolled the perimeter of Wounded Knee today as hopes for a quick peace with Sioux Indians who took over the village five days ago dwindled in an outbreak of sporadic gunfire

Ralph Erickson, a special assistant U S. attorney general, said late Friday, "FBI agents and marshals are being exposed to gunfire ... Fire seems to be continuing and it causes us concern."

Erickson specified three instances of lawmen being fired on. He said federal agents did not return the gunfire No injuries were reported by either side.

Erickson also said that talks on Friday with leaders of the American Indian Movement, which led the takeover, were unproductive.

The 200 Indians in the village, most of them Oglala Sioux, entered Wounded Knee late Tuesday, raided a trading post and held 11 persons hostage until midday Thursday.

Erickson said he is not satisfied that the hostages now are free, as AIM leaders declare.

He also said it was difficult to learn during the talks what the Indians want in exchange for laying down their weapons and surrendering. He made clear the Justice Department position that there is no question of amnesty, that charges will be filed against the Indians if violations are found. He said kidnaping is one of the charges being considered.

Inside the Wounded Knee compound, AIM leaders told newsmen they would surrender the historic, one-street village if federal officials placed charges only against leaders of the takeover.

They repeated their demand that the Senate investigate their charges of corruption in the Bureau of Indian Affairs, in the Oglala Tribe and on the Pine Ridge Reservation, where 11,000 of the 13,000-member tribe reside.

Friday's somber mood followed only 12 hours after South Dakota's two senators, George S. McGovern and James Abourezk, assured the Indians every effort would be made to give them a fair hearing.

Erickson said that during his meeting with AIM leaders, Agnes Gildersleeve, 68, an owner of the trading post, and two members of her family accompanied the Indians and told Erickson that they no longer were being held hostage.

Erickson told newsmen, however, that if residents are not being held against their own will, "Why don't they come out?

Nixon urges measures to prevent terrorism

WASHINGTON (AP) — The execution of two American diplomats in Khartoum has brought calls for justice and preventive measures against international terrorism from President Nixon and the U S ambassador to the United Nations

Cleo A. Noel Jr. G. Curtis Moore

"It was with the deepest sense of grief that I have learned of the acts of terrorism which took the lives of Ambassador Cleo A. Noel and deputy chief of mission George Curtis Moore," Nixon said Friday night

"The United States is emphasizing its strong feeling that the perpetrators of this crime must be brought to justice."

Moore and Noel were executed by members of the Black September terrorist group about 26 hours after the terrorists broke into the Saudi Arabian Embassy

"This tragic event underscores once again the need for all nations to take a firm stand against the menace of international terrorism," Nixon said in a statement released from the White House

The recently named U.S ambassador to the United Nations, John Scali, said the executions represented a new "demand on the U.N. community for meaningful and effective action to halt international terrorist acts."

The assembly in December blocked U.S. and Western Proposals for preparation of a treaty providing for the punishment or extradition of international terrorists. It voted instead for study proposals sponsored by Arab, African and Asian countries

The terrorists originally had demanded the release of Sirhan B Sirhan, who was convicted of assassinating Robert F. Kennedy, and the release of various members of the organization held in Jordan, Israel and Germany.

After the killings, Secretary of State William P. Rogers released a statement, saying "no words can express our shock and grief at the senseless and barbarous murder."

The executions were the latest of some 50 terrorist incidents aimed at American officials abroad in recent years.

Noel, 54, was a veteran U.S. foreign service officer who only recently had arrived in Khartoum .The Sudan and the United States had restored relations last summer, and Moore had been the American representative in Khartoum until Noel's arrival.

A native of Oklahoma, he joined the foreign service in 1949 and was a specialist in Middle East affairs.

He married the former Lucille McHenry.

Moore, 47, had been scheduled to leave Khartoum next Monday to be reassigned with the foreign service.

He began his career with the State Department in 1950 as a resident officer in Frankfurt, Germany.

He married the former Sarah Stewart.

The Noels have two children: John Francis, 20, who is studying at American University in Washington and staying with a foreign service family here; and Janet, 18, a student at Oberlin College in Ohio.

Noel's widow accompanied him to Khartoum but didn't attend the reception.

Guerrillas' demands rejected

KHARTOUM, Sudan, (AP) — The Palestinian guerrillas who executed two American diplomats and shot a Belgian envoy demanded safe passage out of Sudan today with the two Arab diplomats they still hold captive, and the Sudanese government immediately rejected the demand.

Egypt's Middle East News Agency said the Black September commands asked the Sudanese government to supply a plane and send along a senior official as a "guarantee for our safety" There were no immediate indication where they wanted to go

The Sudanese government immediately rejected their demands and ordered the guerrillas instead to hand over the captive Arab diplomats and the bodies of the envoys slain Friday night.

They were Cleo A. Noel Jr., the new U.S. ambassador to Sudan, and the outgoing U.S. charge d'affaires, G. Curtis Moore. The Sudanese government said the guerrillas claimed they also killed the Belgian charge d'affaires, Guy Eid.

The bodies and the two Arab hostages were still in the Saudi Arabian Embassy, where the seven Palestinian terrorists have been holding out since bursting into a farewell reception Thursday night for Moore.

Sudanese authorities began evacuating a four-block area around the Saudi Embassy. Soldiers said they were preparing for "a military operation" to recover the bodies and free the captive diplomats.

But U.S. Embassy informants said the

Bulgarian airliner crashes in Russia

MOSCOW (AP) —A Balkan Airlines Ilyushin 18, carrying 17 passengers and eight crewmen, crashed near the western fringe of Sheremetyevo airport today as it was approaching on a flight from Sofia. Western airline sources reported

Tass said: "The crew and passengers died"

An official of a Western airline said Sheremetyevo's instrument landing system was not working at the time of the crash and the pilot was making his approach manually.

The weather was clear.

Tass said the Civil Aviation Ministry had set up a commission to investigate the cause of the crash.

It was the third crash of an airliner at Sheremetyevo in five months.

An Ilyushin 62 of the Soviet state airline, Aeroflot, crashed near Sheremetyevo on Oct. 13, killing all 176 persons aboard. It was the worst air crash in civil aviation history.

A Japan Airlines DC8 crashed Nov. 28 at the international airport, about 25 miles northwest of Moscow. Sixty-two people perished in that crash.

Boston schools lose aid

BOSTON (AP) —Boston has some schools that are almost all black and others that are almost all white — a situation federal officials say was intentional.

So Boston became on Friday the first city outside the South to be cut off from federal education funds, a loss for the school system of more than $7 million this year.

A issue is what amounts to two parallel school systems, one in black areas, the other in white. Transferring between the two is difficult, complicated by limited openings and incompatible grade structures, authorities say.

The city says all of this came about by accident. The U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare says it was premeditated.

The two systems emerged in 1967, when the Boston School Committee announced that it was phasing out its traditional junior high schools and establishing middle schools.

At that time, all of the city had junior highs with grades 7-9 and high schools with grades 10-12. The new middle schools had grades 6-8 and the high schools 9-12

The school committee said the new organization would make it easier to achieve racial balance and better accommodate youngsters reaching maturity earlier. It said it would set up middle schools all over the city and do away with junior highs.

But the middle schools got only as far as the black ghettoes, and then the changeover stopped.

At the same time, the school committee set up complex patterns under which elementary schools in white neighborhoods fed into junior highs, and elementary schools in black areas fed into middle schools

The middle schools, in turn, fed into four-year high schools and the junior highs into three-year high schools

Pupils were allowed to transfer to high schools outside their areas, but they were restricted by space. Preference for admission was given to pupils who lived near the high schools.

Tranferring was also made difficult because the grade groupings were different.

Martin H. Gerry, an assistant director for special programs in HEW, testified before an HEW administrative judge that the school committee was willing to make exceptions to its feeder school plan when it allowed white students to escape black schools and go to predominantly white schools

But whenever there was a chance that a school would send white students into the black system or send black students into the white system, the school committee created special feeder patterns to inhibit integration, he said

The judge, Lawrence M. Ring, ordered that all federal funds be cut off on the grounds Boston operates a dual school system in violation of the 1964 Civil Rights Act

Irish promised social benefits

DUBLIN (AP) — The left-of-center coalition which ousted Prime Minister Jack Lynch began today to plan its new government, which has promised lower taxes and new social benefits in Ireland.

The coalition of the Irish Party and the Labor Party captured 73 of 144 seats in the lower house in balloting this week and will name Liam Cosgrave, the coalition's leader, as prime minister.

The architect of the victory, however, was a 47-year-old, bushy-haired intellectual, Garret Fitzgerald, who is expected to be named the new finance minister.

His 14-point program, which attracted the voters' eye and sent Lynch's party down to only its sixth defeat in 40 years, promised widespread improvements in social services, eventual abolition of local real estate taxes, and immediate elimination of food taxes and death duties

Mental hospital patients reviewed in Waupaca

BY FERN SMITH
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

WAUPACA — A great deal has happened since last November when Judge A. Don Zwickey, county court branch 1, told the county board that the Lessard Decision, requiring review of persons committed involuntarily to a mental hospital would directly affect this county.

He said then that each patient in the county hospital would have the right to trial by jury if requested, the right to legal counsel and that each case would be decided upon its own merit as to whether the patient would stay in the hospital or be released

Some supervisors envisioned the "turning of helpless and some dangerous patients loose in the street."

During the last three months, however, each of the 144 patients at Waupaca County Hospital have "had their day in court".

"Every one of the patients now at county hospital are here because he or she needs to be here," said David Nolan, superintendent. Five of the patients who were on conditional release have been discharged, 13 went to court and signed voluntary commitments and 126 were given administrative review and remain on a "voluntary commitments".

When Judge Zwickey determined, through the Attorney General's office, the official status for prosecution of these mental cases, he turned the matter over to Dist. Atty. Gerald K. Anderson. Formerly the district attorney's role had been that of watchdog for the court on mental commitments Anderson said the attorney general's decision that his office was best suited to take on new requirements imposed by the Lessard Case set the wheels in motion.

"I believe that Judge Zwickey took the correct position that the Lessard case affects each county directly and Waupaca County specifically since we do have a county hospital," Anderson said Friday. "The Lessard case created considerable mental anguish on the part of those of us who had to carry out its mandates.

"In effect, it was another example of a federal court general directive without authorizing specific procedures or paying any attention to the fiscal needs of the various agencies required to devote manpower and money to carry out the law," the district attorney said.

"Something like a rose that means different things in the eyes of the beholder, from the legal standpoint it was a bad fact situation resulting in bad law," he said. "The three-man federal judges panel could have decided this specific case on the grounds that existing law had not been properly carried out.

"Actually, it was an attempt to meet an emergency not provided in Chapter 51 commitment procedure and a flagrant example of present law being mismanaged with the excuse of expediency and convenience as it is done in too many cases," Anderson criticized. "The people behind the petition were frustrated that the Wisconsin Legislature had not passed reform measures which have been paraded before the legislature for a half dozen years or more.

"The Lessard Decision in its simplest definition provides all the criminal procedural safeguards to people being accused of being mentally ill and insane. The application of criminal law to these cases is a step backwards. The approach of the prosecutor, the defense attorney and witnesses gets away from the medical needs of the alleged incompetent gets one involved in limitations of criminal evidence, as well as prevents the court from getting the full details of the alleged incompetent's problems," he said.

"The net result, regardless of theory, is that many people who need treatment and if given it might return to a free society, are left drifting on their own devices until something really traumatic happens to them," Anderson said.

He said there have been some obvious benefits of the Decision to cases in institution in that each and every person confined has been brought up for review and the institution has been required to justify the detention of each and every person detained.

"Institutions and people dealing with mentally ill patients are apt to become lethargic and the rules become iron bound," Anderson said. "What happens then is that the rules are applied within the letter of the law rather than in the spirit of the law.

"I am proud of our court, the hospital superintendent, the lawyers, the clerk of courts, everyone involved, since they all participated in this task without complaining and approached the problem in the spirit of what was best for the patient."

The hospital administration, including the consulting psychiatrist and physician reviewed each of the 144 patients. The 13 patients scheduled for court each were represented by an appointed attorney, the psychiatrists and physician made a written report on each to the court; those who could be transported were taken to the courthouse for their first hearing and those who could not travel were interviewed by the judge, at the county hospital, in the presence of a representative from the district attorney's office, the patient's attorney and the hospital.

In a second hearing, the medical testimony was presented in each and every case, in the presence of the patient with his or her attorney, the judge, the court reporter, a representative from the district attorney's office.

"It was obvious that each one of these patients were in need of further institutional care but I believe each felt they had had their day in court," Anderson said.

"The obvious legal hangup in the Lessard case is that to warrant confinement, a person must be in immediate danger to himself or others at the time the hearing takes place," Anderson said. "To many judges this merely means that the patient is unable to make intelligent decisions in a day-to-day life. To a strict legal constructionist, it means that if the person were charged as a criminal the State would have been able to convict him or her of an attempt of a serious crime.

"This construction, of course, has precluded certain people from receiving treatment for all concerned but the patient who needs treatment," he concluded. "Another illogical statement in the Lessard case from the standpoint of legal philosophy is that the person presently confined could sign a voluntary consent to be kept confined. This ruling begs the question, whether such a consent is really made with understanding."

Appleton gets formal bid on shredder site

Two Outagamie County officials have formally asked Appleton to sell to the county a Northeast Industrial Park parcel for the planned solid waste disposal shredder site and said they will ask the County Board to support the request.

County Executive Alvin Woehler and Supv. Joseph DeBruin, chairman of the zoning and economic advancement committee, wrote a letter this week requesting the purchase of a 6.5-acre site immediately east of the city municipal building and bordering E. Glendale Avenue on the south.

The letter to the city clerk also indicated that they wanted the option to purchase an additional 7.1 acres immediately east of the proposed site.

Woehler and DeBruin asked the city to move expeditiously on considering the request.

Some aldermen expressed objections to locating the shredder facility on the industrial park site, and City Planner Jack Hetu indicated earlier this week that zoning requirements prohibit such use.

Woehler said he considered the site, which is bounded on the south by the Chicago and North Western railroad tracks, an "ideal location." He noted that the rail proximity added a transportation alternative for those using the shredder.

In their letter, Woehler and DeBruin cited reasons why they liked the site. They said most of the tonnage would be in the area of the site, namely the Fox Cities urban area, so it would be more economical by holding down transportation costs; the site has transportation alternatives; it conforms to the governor's task force recycling guidelines, and it "renders itself amenable to maximum esthetic appeal" since it wouldn't be too noticeable and would conform to surrounding environs and buildings.

Woehler said a buffer of trees could be provided on the Glendale site, and the other three borders were buffered by the municipal building, railroad tracks and the 7.1-acre site.

He said the county was evaluating current costs to determine what a fair price would be for the land. He added that it seemed logical to use the federal revenue sharing funds to buy the land since that was being used to construct the facility.

Woehler said he hoped the county could proceed so the shredder operation would be working by Jan. 1, 1974. "I think that anytime we delay now, it's a delay in providing appropriate resolve to the solid waste disposal problems of the county," he said.

The city had sought the formal request from the county so its appropriate committees would have a written proposal to review. If the city decided to sell, a price would have to be negotiated.

The county is planning to contract with Allis-Chalmers in Appleton for the shredding operation. The plant will serve as a pilot for continued research by the firm which is just getting into the solid waste management business.

Scout leadership brings fulfillment

BY HAZEL THIEL
Post-Crescent Correspondent

SHERWOOD—"It's the fellowship of Scouting that has impressed me most", James Schmidt, Scoutmaster of Troop 62, Sherwood, says of his 20 years in Scouting.

Schmidt stepped down Monday night to become assistant Scoutmaster and unit commissioner for the East District of the Fox Valley Boy Scout Council. John Reichwald is the new scoutmaster.

Schmidt, a native of Sherwood, is distribution specialist at Badger Northland, Kaukauna

Relating how he became involved in Scouting, Schmidt said he was planning on a spot in Cubbing when he attended the organizational meeting, as his oldest boy was too young for Scouts, but came home with a book on the duties of a scoutmaster. "My wife said 'what happened did you get a job?' When she saw the book I handed her she said, 'I should say you really did get a job'."

Schmidt credited his long tenure as head of the Sherwood troop to his wife, Jean. The couple has six children, three boys and three girls. Two of the boys are Scouts now.

Schmidt recalled that Matt McCourt, who lives at High Cliff, was his first assistant scoutmaster. The first meeting Schmidt said was a swimming party at McCourt's Lake Winnebago home. Sixteen boys formed the first troop sponsored by a local community club, a forerunner of the later Harrison School Community Club. The American Legion now sponsors the troop

About a month after the troop was organized, he recalled, he went with the boys to a camporee at Clintonville. "We didn't have any equipment, we just went as observers." Later they were active in a Kaukauna camporee The troop has 19 Scouts, and has an all time high of 36

During his years as scoutmaster, Schmidt noted, one of his proud achivements was helping to reorganize the troop at Hilbert and participating in various training sessions at Morgan School He admits to no behavior problems with his boys "although there's always one or two who make it interesting," he has sent boys home when they misbehaved

Asked if boys have changed over 20 years he is quick to say "Oh yes, definitely, they are smarter, better educated and" quicker to catch on."

Among his most memorable occasions with the Scouts was the outdoor Court of Honor in 1963, conducted at Bishop's Dingle, just east of the village. The outdoor setting in a quarry, and the atmosphere created by the Order of the Arrow Indian dancers, is something Schmidt hopes will be repeated.

He also recalled the Snow Derby for the Fox Valley Council, conducted at the same location, which turned out to be a "mud derby" because of the warm weather.

In addition to his Scouting activities, Schmidt is a Sunday School teacher at Zion United Methodist Church, Forest Junction, where he teaches high school students. He also is head of the ushers and on the pastor-parish relations committee.

Former Scouts, adults now, often discuss their experiences with their former Scoutmaster, adding to his love of scouting fellowship, which it is obvious, means so much to him.

Fox Valley socked in by fog

Visibility zero

The gate signs at Outagamie County Airport disappear into the heavy fog, but there aren't any passengers to use them anyway. There have been no flights in or out of the field since 6 p.m. Thursday and Air Wisconsin officials have no idea when the situation will improve. (Post-Crescent Photo)

The Fox Valley and indeed most of Wisconsin is grounded.

Nature has once again proved she's boss and there are airplanes large and small all over the state attesting to her superiority.

The latest weather whim is fog — thick, white soupy fog — which has shrouded at least this part of Wisconsin for two days now and doesn't offer any signs of leaving. Weathermen say it's one of the penalties we have to pay for having such a mild winter.

No flights have come in or flown out of Outagamie County Airport in Appleton since 6 p.m. Thursday. At Green Bay's Austin Straubel Field the grounding began even earlier, at 1 p.m. Thursday, while at Wittman Field in Oshkosh the last plane to leave the field did so at 7 a.m. Friday.

James Jansen, superintendent of stations for Air Wisconsin at Outagamie, said this morning that officials had scheduled an extra flight for this morning to alleviate the backup, but that, of course, had to be canceled. He said the station manager's latest word from weather officials was that the fog would be around until noon Sunday.

Weather forecasters at the United States Weather Station in Green Bay wouldn't be so specific, but did say that a cold front in western Wisconsin will chase the fog away as it moves this direction. They said the front is expected in the Fox Cities area early Sunday morning.

However, forecasters warn that it will take longer for the fog-lifting front to reach Milwaukee and Chicago. At the same time, they point out, it also will move the fog eastward toward Detroit and other eastern cities, so air flights in that direction may be affected even longer.

Air Wisconsin officials say that they had 12 flights stranded in Chicago and three in Minneapolis on Friday, plus five others that were grounded here. An equal number of scheduled flights can expect to be affected today.

At Austin Straubel Field, North Central Airlines officials said this morning that 32 flights are scheduled in a normal day, so that at 1 p.m. today a total of 64 flights will have been canceled.

North Central spokesmen at both Green Bay and Oshkosh airports said they were having no passenger problems at the terminals because most people had been contacted in advance and had not come to the fields.

Air Wisconsin officials this morning said no one was at the terminal. They would not estimate how many people had been inconvenienced by the heavy fog.

Weathermen this morning reported that visibility was zero to one-eighth mile at Madison, Milwaukee, Manitowoc, Marinette-Menominee and Escanaba. At Chicago's O'Hare Field, the ceiling was 100 feet, but visibility also was one-eighth mile.

Airline officials at all three Fox Cities area fields admitted they had no idea when their planes would get off the ground, but added that passengers would be notified.

Audit blasts justice council budget request

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A stiff federal-state audit released Friday blasted the administration of the controversy-plagued state Council on Criminal Justice as the new director of the agency asked legislative approval of a proposed $28.9 million budget on his second day on the job.

Robert Stonek told the legislature's Joint Committee on Finance that "far less than 1 per cent of our expenditures have been questioned" as the state auditor released a combined study which challenged administrative and fiscal controls in the agency.

Stonek was appointed by Gov. Patrick J. Lucey to replace Walter Kelly as executive director of the agency, target of political fire within the state and attacks from Congressional comptrollers.

Kelly was fired by Lucey just a year after being named to the job by the chief executive. Lucey's staff listed complaints from local officials about Kelly's personality and administrative techniques in dealing with local agencies as chief among the reasons for the unprecedented dismissal.

Local officials, top Lucey aides explained in detail at the time of the firing, had complained to the governor that they could no longer work with Kelly in his position.

Lucey asked Kelly to stay in his post until the federal-state audit was released. The audit grows out of congressional charges about the handling of contracts for radio equipment for Wisconsin law enforcement agencies under the state program which administers funds of the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

The charges, which originated before Kelly was named to the post by Lucey, indicated that law enforcement radio contracts were handled on other than a competitive low bid system in a number of instances. One radio firm allegedly garnered more than 90 per cent of the business, handled under the Council on Criminal Justice program.

The federal-state audit, released by State Auditor Robert Ringwood, attacked continuing administrative policies within the state council and the handling of selected grants uncovered during a spot check of recent local assistance projects conducted by the state agency.

Ringwood reported that:

—The federal program has rejected a council plan for an employe merit system proposed under Kelly's administration and outside of regular state civil service. The council has done nothing about the federal rejection and continues to operate without an approved merit plan, Ringwood reported. Lucey moved the council, formerly in the state Justice Department, into the executive office early in his administration and exempted its workings from civil service procedures, leading to charges of "patronage".

— The state council has failed to get federal approval for the use of $124,000 in federal funds for the payment of regional planners working under that system, despite a clear federal policy requiring that approval in writing before those funds are used in such a manner.

— The state council allowed more than $164,000 in available federal funds earmarked for Wisconsin to lapse because it was unable to complete programs with the money within the period of the grant program.

— Three of 37 spot-checked grants administered by the agency "warrant corrective action," in Ringwood's words. "Our audit did not disclose any serious violations or irregularities," he reported, but added that more than $1,600 in specific expenditures should be challenged —including the purchase of a $56 bathroom scale and a $205 used refrigerator at a drug addiction center in Racine.

Administrative challenges were made to agency operations involving controls over the amount of time employes spend on the job and fiscal operations of the agency and local agencies awarded the grants.

Stonek said that the report questioned only about "0.15 per cent of the expenditures of the agency," and received little questioning from finance committee members who had earlier postponed consideration of the Council's proposed 1973-75 budget until the new director was on the job.

Lucey's proposed budget for the agency calls for the expenditure of $3.1 million in state tax funds during the coming two years, along with $25.8 million in expected federal funds for the state.

Prison closing called decoy

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The leader of the state senate Republican majority asserted Friday that Gov. Patrick Lucey's demand for the closing of three major corrections and treatment institutions is a "decoy" issue that will save less than 1 per cent of the state budget even if the Lucey economy estimate is accepted.

Sen. Raymond Johnson of Eau Claire, new leader of the senate Republican caucus that has the power to thwart the governor's controversial proposals, made the complaint to state capitol reporters who gathered at his invitation.

Johnson said that the proposed abandonment of the state reformatory at Green Bay, the state Child Treatment Center at Sparta, and the hospital for the criminal insane at Waupun are intended to divert attention from the size of his state budget and his "political engineering".

Even if no allowance is made for the maintenance of those institution populations elsewhere, he said, Lucey can claim savings of only about two-thirds of 1 per cent of his aggregate budget in the institution closings.

Johnson complained that the governor has incorporated so many organization and policy changes in his complex budget that for citizens or legislators to examine it critically is "like putting socks on an octopus." But he promised that the Republicans who have veto power in the legislature's upper house will examine it rigorously, notwithstanding.

He charged that the governor has hidden in his voluminous budget document fiscal proposals that will commit the state to higher installment payments for an indefinite future decade. He referred to expenditure proposals that Lucey has said are possible as a result of improved state treasury conditions, but which Johnson noted will be difficult or impossible to eliminate after they are written into law.

Johnson, who several years ago headed a legislative committee chosen to formulate an improved public welfare program, complained that the governor has proposed complete state control of public assistance programs now operated by the counties, without any explicit plan for welfare reforms.

He demanded less secrecy in welfare administration, an aggressive program of locating defaulting fathers to recover welfare expenditures made on behalf of their families, and a "watch dog" council on welfare expenditures which he noted is not the highest single category of state spending at more than half a billion dollars in the current budget proposal.

He said the senate Republican majority will offer a comprehensive welfare reform program as an alternative to the Lucey plans contained in the budget now being revived by a legislative committee.

'To be alert means to live to fullest,' Mrs. Snow tells Church Women United CLINTONVILLE — The community observance of the World Day of Prayer, sponsored by Church Women United, was attended by more than 150 people Friday at Christ Congregational Church. Persons from six churches participated.

The theme was "Alert in Our Time," which was the subject of the message by the Rev. Alice B. Snow, pastor.

"Some people insist on living in memories of the past and others hang on some vague hope for the future, but the only time we can truly live is today, in our time," Mrs. Snow said.

"But too many don't live; they exist, bored, baffled, and befuddled. For people like that, the theme of this World Day of Prayer has a very special message, 'Alert In Our Time'. That message if taken seriously would open up the kind of life which Jesus promised and the church has talked about. Jesus said, 'I came that you might have life and have it more abundantly.' It is a promise of life in the here and now which is open to those who are alert in our time."

Mrs. Snow continued, "To be alert in our time means being alert to the needs of others, to the opportunities which are ours, and to the working of the spirit of God every hour of every day in many, many ways which we miss because we refuse to be alert and to live. Those who consciously alert themselves to the power of God at work in the world will also be alert to the needs of others and to opportunities which come for them when least expected.

"We pray for peace, for personhood, for the presence of God. Let us be alerted to our neighbor's needs, give him help and understanding. Let us be aware of our surprising opportunities, act upon them and God will multiply our actions. Let us be aware of God's variety of ways to make Himself known, rejoice in each one as we see it and know that He can use us to make Himself known to others."

Representatives from the cooperating congregations who shared in conducting the liturgy were Bethany Evangelical, Mrs. Lee Remmers and Maizie Smith; Christus Lutheran, Mrs. John Wilson and Mrs. William Viergutz; Christ Congregational, Mrs. John Buehrens, Mrs. George McCauley and Mrs. Snow; St. Martin Lutheran, Mrs. Roy Eberhardt and Mrs. Louis Krueckenberg; St. Rose Catholic, Mrs. Everett Bard and Mrs. Joseph Paul; and United Methodist, Mrs. Lowell Velte and Mrs. Stanley Wick.

Ushers were Mrs. Harry Dean, Mrs. Ted Laib, Mrs. Arnold Weinig and Mrs. Leroy W. Woods.

Mrs. Glenn Griesbach was the organist and Mrs. Earl Knapp, the soloist, Robin Hansen and Paula Wunsch played a flute duet.

Following the service of worship, the women of Christ Church served as hostesses for a fellowship hour. The hostesses were Mrs. John Monty, chairman, Mrs. Charles Glocke, Mrs. Gretchen Lighthart, Miss Harriet McCauley, Mrs. Margaret Moriarty, Mrs. Clarence Rohrer, Mrs. Max Schrader and Mrs. Erwin Strehlow.

She's an innocent victim of cautious police

LITTLE CHUTE—Mary Vanden Bloomer doesn't ride with the D.C. Eagles.

And, contrary to what some of her neighbors and others think, she didn't provide members of the Chicago motorcycle gang with a hiding place in her home while they were being pursued by police Sunday morning.

It was about 9 a.m. Sunday. Mrs. Vanden Bloomer and her eight children and a friend's three children had just finished breakfast.

"Look at all the cops out here," one of the children remarked as he peered out the front window.

A bewildered Mrs. Vanden Bloomer watched as policemen stationed themselves around her house and garage and on Main Street. Some of them carried shotguns.

It was early. Mrs. Vanden Bloomer hadn't heard yet that police were still seeking some members of the motorcycle gang in connection with the raping of two Appleton girls . hours earlier in a Little Chute house.

Her telephone rang. It was a policeman. Mrs. Vanden Bloomer was instructed to come out a side door. She hobbled out onto the porch on her crutches, which she uses while recovering from leg surgery.

The men were to come out of the house, too, she was told. What men? she wondered. The only man in the house lived in an upstairs apartment.

Police received a tip that the suspects they were hunting had been seen entering the home, she was told. Little Chute Police Chief Robert Nechodom later said the tip appeared to have been reliable.

A couple of policemen searched her apartment. "They even looked under the beds and in the closets," Mrs. Vanden Bloomer recalled.

Police also looked through the upstairs apartment; in the garage and in the basement where, Mrs. Vanden Bloomer admitted, the suspects could have hidden if they were in or near her house. There is an outside entry to the basement and rarely does anyone go down there, she said.

Nechodom said there were tracks in new snow around the basement door.

Police left her house after 20 minutes, Mrs. Vanden Bloomer said. But the neighbors' doubts and suspicions linger, she fears. So do the rumors. You don't live in a small town and have your house surrounded and searched by policemen without stories getting started.

It even got to the point, Mrs. Vanden Bloomer related, that her welfare caseworker came to the house and asked for an explanation.

She's hearing from people who haven't called in . years. They're wondering what happened at 314 E. Main St. Sunday morning.

Nechodom told Mrs. Vanden Bloomer he was sorry it all happened, but that under the circumstances, police were doing what had to be done. Thirteen suspects were already caught. At least 20 more were still on the loose. There were tracks leading the few blocks from Monroe Street house where the alleged attacks occurred to Mrs. Vanden Bloomer's house. And there was the telephone caller who suggested looking in Mrs. Vandern Bloomer's house. Precautions had to be taken, Nechodom explained, because "those guys might have been in there." But they weren't. Mrs. Vanden Bloomer wants her friends and neighbors and rumor mongers to know they weren't.

Want to live to 100? 'Be ornery, fight daily'

By GEORGE W. CORNEL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Old folks who have lived to advanced ages often are asked how it's done. To what habits or rules do they attribute their long life? They offer a pot-pourri of prescriptions, religious and otherwise.

A collection of them was assembled in a recent issue of the Immortality Newsletter, a bimonthly roundup of antideath research and thought published in San Marco, Calif.

It reports there currently are about 12,000 Americans who have lived more than 100 years, and presents this sampling of some of their formulas for achieving such longevity:

"Believe in God. Pray daily."

"Have a free mind. Don't fall for religious bunk."

"Never drink alcohol." "Drink a pint of whisky per day."

"Read the Biblem"

"Read spicy detective stories."

"Get plenty of exercise."

"Shun physical activity. Conserve your energy."

"Get plenty of rest. Sleep 10 or 12 hours per day."

"Never sleep over four hours per day."

"Sleep with your feet pointed south, so that magnetic vibrations from the north will pass through your body and out through your feet, ordering and harmonizing all systemic functions in the process."

"Sleep with your feet pointed north, so that magnetic vibrations from the north will pass upwards to your brain, with rejuvenating effect."

"Abstain from meat, eating only raw fruits, vegetables and nuts."

"Eat a pound of lean meat every day."

"Abstain from dairy products."

"Eat only eggs, butter, milk and cheese."

"Drink plenty of water."

"Never drink water. 'A little wine for thy stomach's sake'."

"Smoke a corncob pipe continously."

"Chew a plug of tobacco per day."

"Avoid tobacco in every form."

"Abstain from sex."

"Have plenty of sexual activity."

"Get plenty of sunshine. It is the source of all energy and health."

"Avoid sunlight. It causes cancer."

"Be at peace with yourself and all men."

"Be ornery. Have at least one good fight with somebody every day."

"Don't cater to your appetites and whims. Observe strict self-discipline. Don't expect life to be too great, because it isn't. Prepare for the worst and you'll never be disappointed."

"Do what you want, when you want it. Sleep when you're tired and rise when you're rested. Worry about nothing, think young —and have some fun."

A. Stuart Otto, editor of the newsletter, comments: "Take your choice. Just don't try them all at once."

Nun will head new diocesan worship office

GREEN BAY—Sister Jeanette Peplinski, executive secretary of the Green Bay Diocesan Commission on the Liturgy for the past four years, has been named director of the newly created Office of Worship by the Most Rev. Aloysius Wycislo, bishop.)

Sister Jeanette, of the Sisters oi St. Francis of the Holy Cross, Bay Settlement, will coordinate activites and programs of liturgical commission members in her new post.

In addition, two appointments, two reappointments and two retirements on the commission have been announced.

The new members are the Rev. John Tulko, OFM, Green Bay, and Miss Dorothy F. Schomaker, Marinette. Reappointed were A. Gerard Patterson, Appleton, and the Rev. James Dillenberg, Green Bay.

Tulko, associate pastor of St. Mary of the Angels, Green Bay, replaces his brother, the Rev. Richard Tulko, who was reassigned from the Franciscan Printery in Pulaski last fall and now serves at Burlington.

Also retiring from the commission is Mrs. Lyle Becker of Appleton, a charter member.

Miss Schomaker has been active in her church and recently completed a term as publicity chairman of the State Conference of Catholic Women.

Informational meetings on the charismatic movement set

A series of four informational meetings about the charismatic movement in the church will be conducted by the Rev. Daniel Spina, pastor of the First Assembly of God, beginning Sunday.

Sessions, open to members and non members, will be at 7 p.m. March 4, 11, 18 and 15 at 320 N. Durkee St.

Topics which will be covered by Spina are:

—Is the charismatic movement genuine and what is it's significance?

—What are spiritual gifts and the use and abuse of them?

—What is the baptism with the Holy Spirit and the speaking with tongues and what does the Bible say about the subject?

According to Spina, the sessions are for people who have had some contact with the charismatic movement and are conducted in the hopes of helping them better understand what is involved.

The name "Charismatic movement" or "Neo Pentecostal" movement is a designation given to the group found in churches of all denominations who believe in the Pentecostal experience similar to that of the early Christian church.

The type of meetings held by these groups, which now estimate a membership of 10 million, is unstructured. No one speaks from the pulpit as a rule although several may give Biblical exhortations outside the context of preaching.

Interspersed are personal testimonies, worship, praise and prayers, which are given impromptu.

The one outstanding feature of the group is the belief in and practice of the "Gifts of the Spirit. The speaking in tongues, the healings and deliverances and changes in lifestyles are part of the teachings.

—St. Mary parish hall, Hilbert, 2 p.m. Sundays, March 11, 18, 25 and April 1.

Individual sessions in the series will focus on various aspects of the marital relationship, including communication, role, expectations, family finances, sexuality and the love relationship within the Christian dimension.

Presentations will be made by married couples, doctors, businessmen and clergymen. A question and answer period will follow.

The program is open to engaged couples as well as those who have been married for any length of time.

ALC minister to speak at WCC meeting

MILWAUKEE—Dr. Keith R. Bridston, an American Lutheran minister and professor of systematic theology at Pacific School of Theology, will be the keynote speaker at the 38th annual meeting of the Wisconsin Council of Churches Sunday.

Also present will be observers from denominations not now a part of the Council, including representatives from the Catholic and American Lutheran churches.

Bridston serves as executive secretary of the WCC comission on faith and order and is executive director of the Case Study Institute at Harvard University. The Institute is working to develop a method for theological education on integrating theology with life situations.

Major business items to be acted on at the meeting will be the budget and the election of officers.

Citizens group will promote construction of new Oneida bridge

A citizens group has been formed to promote construction of the proposed Oneida Street high level bridge across the Fox River in Appleton.

Edward Koerschner, 536 W. Michigan St., chairman of the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce transportation committee, is president of the group which filed its statement with City Clerk Elden Broehm, Friday. Mrs. Dorothy Stillings, 1323 Oakcrest Drive, is secretary, and treasurer is Richard Jones, 1925 N. Gillett St.

According to the statement, donated funds to the organization will be used for advertising.

A public forum, at which city officials and planners will discuss information concerning the proposed $10.5 million bridge, has been set for 7:30 p.m. Thursday at James Madison Junior High School. Mayor James Sutherland called for the forum, which is not intended to be a pro and con type of discussion.

Appleton voters will decide, through an April 3 referendum vote, if they want the city to bond for its share of constructing the new bridge.

All Saints' Shrove Tuesday supper set

All Saints' Episcopal Church will have its annual Shrove Tuesday pancake supper from 6 to 7:30 p.m. next week.

Opinion

THE Post-Crescent

Australia and the Catholic Church

The last decade or so in the United States has seen considerable ferment among the various churches and probably none more so than the conflict between what is sometimes casually called the pre and post Vatican II opinions and attitudes.

The Roman Catholic church's 40th Eucharistic Congress now going on in Australia indicates that no obvious mellowing is in sight.

First the secular state dealt the Congress several blows. The new reform government in Australia is introducing measures for more liberalized abortion. It cut the government controlled price of contraceptives in half. It further announced that "The Last Tango in Paris" could be shown without cuts to viewers 18 and over.

But within the Congress itself controversy was still apparent. One speaker warned that "if Catholics ignore the need to control fertility, the vacuum may be filled by advocates of radical measures such as abortion or governmental coercion." One priest interviewed said the Vatican stand on contraception was "absurd."

And an American nun arriving at the airport gave the raised fist Black Power salute!

The problem in the Philippines

When President Ferdinand Marcos declared martial law in the Philippines last fall he announced that it was necessary to prevent a leftist plot from toppling democracy. Those who allegedly had ties with the Communists and such radicals as university students were rounded up, at least temporarily.

Now it turns out that the plot was from the right wing instead.

Two staff members of the United States Senate Foreign Relations committee were told in Manila by a so far unidentified high Philippine official that Vice President Fernando Lopez and Sergio Osmena, Jr., an opponent of President Marcos in the 1969 presidential election, were involved along with three Americans and a number of Filipinos. The assassination plan to get rid of Marcos evolved from the opinion of high ranking and wealthy families that his regime meant an end to their influence. The plot wasn't made public last fall because it was important that the confidence of the people in the government and the military be maintained and the plot reached into some pretty high echelons.

It's likely that both left and right wing plots existed and still exist in the Philippines. The same can be said of dozens of nations in the world with something less than stable governments or those labeled as illegitimate in that their right to rule is not accepted by the majority of the people. This differs from having the backing of the majority. In the Philippines there not only probably are some remnants of the once powerful and Communist-oriented Huks among those local bandits who go by that name today. There is undoubtedly dissension among the wealthy families who do not want to see their great land holdings distributed among the peasants or their dominance of the legislature diluted.

The question remains as to whether the threat of assassination or overthrow warranted the application and the maintenance of martial law.

No draft deferment in Greece

At the height of youth dissension over American participation in the war in Vietnam a few years ago, then Selective Service head General Hersey suggested that demonstrating young men in universities have their student exemptions lifted. It probably happened in a few cases until civil rights defenders objected.

There is no hemming or hawing about the policy in Greece.

The Greek government simply enacted a decree ending all draft deferments for students the government determines are troublesome. About a hundred student leaders of dissident groups have been sent into the armed forces and the government has firmly resisted all protests. According to Byron Stamatopoulos, undersecretary to the premier and with Cabinet rank, "the question is simple. Whoever wants to study may do so. Whoever does not, has to go into the army. It is in the hands of the students, not us. It is his right if he wants to use it. Of course, we mean study, and not political activities and terrorism."

Probably quite a few Americans of adult years thought that was a pretty good solution for the troubles over here on campuses and draft boards. But it doesn't always end so simply.

"The Government does not consider this a serious problem," said Stamatopoulos. But then the media reported the boycotts and other demonstrations by students against the decree. Accordingly editors and publishers of the already cowed Greek press were called together. Prominent treatment of the student activities could be interpreted as an incitement to revolt for which the newsmen would be held responsible. One publisher was summoned before the Special Prosecutor.

Further explanation of the decree is simply that the students who are protesting are "Fascists or Communists", there isn't any reason for complaint because "our system eliminates reasons for discontent." There is free education, free meals and free books for the students. Apparently there just isn't free speech.

Whatever the disadvantages of the permissive society we have witnessed the last few years, that right to think and speak freely has not been curbed. A series of trials of blatant, even arrogant, use of such freedom — Chicago Seven, Harrisburg Eight, Angela Davis — have resulted in acquittal for the defendants.

What would have happened in Vietnam had the United States been able to employ repressive tactics on students and the press similar to that in Greece? This will be an eternal argument and there won't be any conclusion. But we're glad it didn't happen here.

Males in colleges decreasing

Men may grumble but another statistic indicates the stability of women in relation to men.

The rate of young men attending college rose rapidly between the years 1963 and 1969. Then it began to drop with the result that in 1972 the rate of the 18- and 19-year-olds was the lowest in eight years. But for women of the same age, it has remained just about the same.

Of course women haven't been subject to the draft and, in retrospect, it appears that selective service was a prime cause of male attendance at college for six years. But even though an increasing percentage of young men are in the labor force rather than the university, a good-sized bunch seems to be generally unaccounted for. According to Abbott Ferris, sociologist, they "are dropouts, not just from school but from society — a 'hang loose' generation. . .Some have a negative reaction against the achievement orientation of society, some are against what they call the 'system', and some just drop out to find themselves. .But. . .their dropping out means a decrease in the education of this cohort of the labor force."

Total college enrollment continues to increase but the primary reasons are women and blacks. And the great majority of the women who belong in that "neither" category are simply those who married young and are home not exactly doing nothing but not on labor or university records.

Actually the situation may be a healthy one even though probably a temporary one. With more women and blacks receiving higher education, the statistics on better employment and executive opportunities may be shifted in later years if only a few percentage points.

Public's esteem of officials dwindles

MADISON — Serious politicians, without regard to party affiliation and issues, are increasingly worried about the declining regard of the public for their profession.

From Los Angeles the other day Jess Unruh, the best known state legislative leader in the country when he ruled the lower house of the California Legislature as speaker for many years, distributed an extraordinarily detailed questionnaire on the state of morality in American legislatures. A copy was sent to this department among others here.

Warren aware of trend

In this state, Atty. Gen. Robert Warren, himself a politician of admirably high standards of private life and public conduct, recently delivered a speech that was unfortunately little noticed in the press but was exceptional for its candid acknowledgement of declining public trust in government and the politicians who rule it.

Unruh is a Democrat and a man of some distinction. He was one of the most powerful men in California until he campaigned for the governorship and lost. In Wisconsin, Republican Warren has a responsible record as lawyer, county prosecutor, state senator, and for the last six years, head of the state Department of Justice.

But both of these men are obviously concerned about the decline in esteem for politicians and trust in government and evidently want to do something about it. Unruh's thoughtful and probing questions relating to the behavior of American state legislators show clearly that on the basis of his experience there is ample room for improvement. His project is financed by a respectable foundation.

Indeed, after a couple of hours of writing replies to his almost painfully long and refined list of queries on legislative conduct, lobbying, campaign financing, log-rolling, back scratching and direct conflicts of interest, a Wisconsin reporter feels a kind of relief that he is able to answer "no" or "rarely" to many of the questions that this able and experienced man in a major metropolitan state feels are necessary in any serious exploration of standards in our state Capitols.

The Wisconsin attorney general says with great and perhaps dangerous candor that public trust in government is seriously eroding and he will sponsor a more rigorous proposal for a code of governmental ethics with the force of law than has ever been seriously offered here.

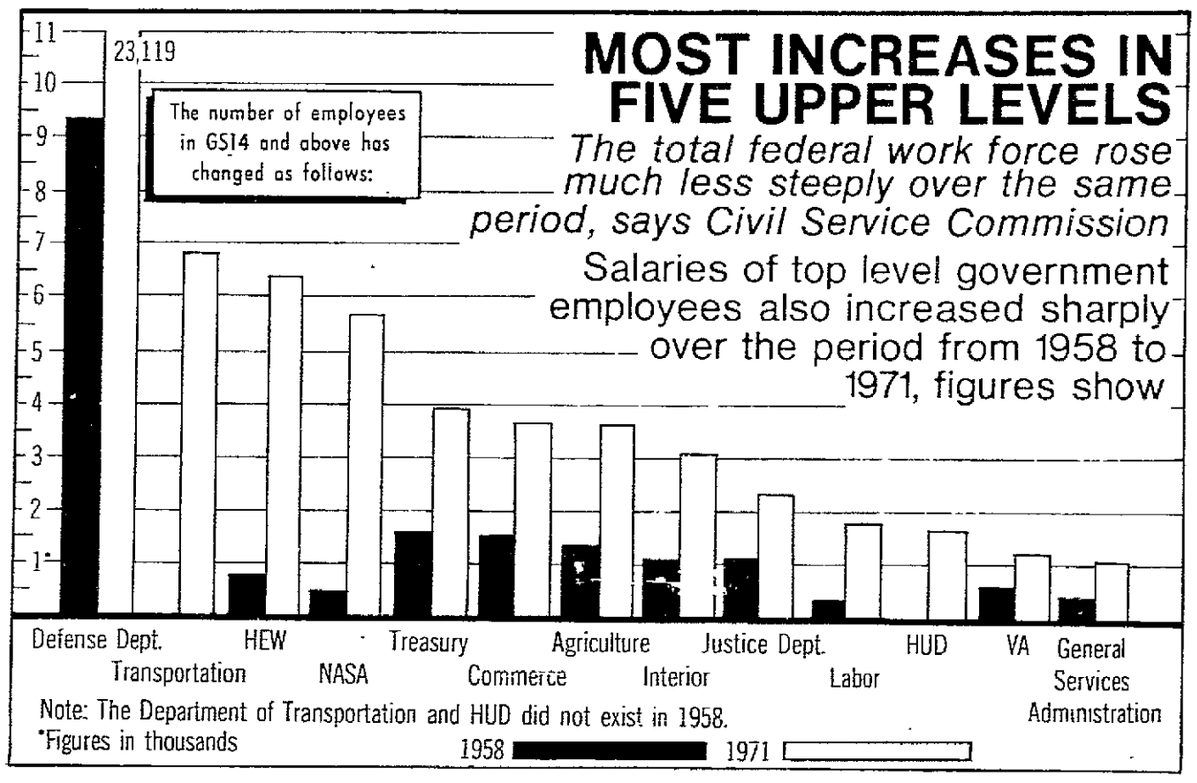

In addition to the obvious avenues of stronger lobbying controls, extension of antisecrecy laws and repairing of the gaping holes in the laws governing the use of money in elections and in those on disclosure of such financing, Warren flatly demands a rigorous statutory code of ethics for public officials. It would apply to all levels, state and local, administrative, legislative, executive, and whatever.

A deterrent could be a requirement for financial disclosure by officials, according to the attorney general who evidently has reflected deeply on the matter. Public response to such a plan in principle will be favorable. But mechanics will prove troublesome and unless reasonable compromises are accepted, the idea will be ignored again.

The problem is to balance the reasonable rights of the individual who chooses public service and the right of the public to know enough about him to detect conflicts of interest. Automatic disclosure proposals fail because they tend to compromise public men in very humble financial circumstances, or when they are extraordinarily affluent.

There could be accord on a middle ground — as through a requirement for filing with an ethics commission, which would then be permitted to inspect the file to judge the validity of complaints received.

Top Civil Service Brass Tripled in 13 Years

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Figures compiled by the U.S. Civil Service Commission reveal that the number of top echelon employes in federal posts more than tripled in 13 years, while the total work force in the same field rose only 24 per cent.

The findings noted that the steepest increase occurred in the five top echelons of the federal civil service in General Schedule Grades 14 and above. There was also a marked rise in salaries of top government employes, from a minimum of $11,355 for GS-14 in 1958 to a minimum of $20,815 for the same grade in 1971.

The most recent year for which employment figures are available is 1971 but it was noted that salaries have gone higher since that year. They now start at $23,088 for GS-14 and climb to $30,018 after 10 years in grade.

The top salary in civil service for GS-18, has risen from $17,500 in 1958 to $36,000 now, the report said.

The Civil Service Commission findings showed that the Defense Department, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare accounted for the biggest increase in the number of managers, engineers and other high salaried employes in the federal field.

There were sharp increases noted in some old-line agencies, however, like the Labor Department where the number of employes in the five top grades rose from 305 in 1958 to 1,710 in 1971.

A study compiled for the Labor Department by Peter Henle cited the increases in top bureaucratic ranks as part of a trend toward greater inequality in earnings among workers in the United States.

"What's happening in government reflects the whole job market," said Henle. "There's more upper story bureaucracy everywhere."

Turning to all wages and salaries earned by all male workers in America, Henle's study said that earnings had become more unequal because of changes in the job market.

Henle said the occupations with the highest earnings, such as professional, technical and managerial posts have shown the highest increases both in numbers and money.

At the bottom of the economic ladder, however, the number of low paid jobs remained about the same, the Henle study showed.

In 1970, the bottom fifth of fulltime male workers earned less than $6,213 a year while the top fifth earned more than $13,679.

In Federal employment, a spokesman for the Civil Service Commission said that most of the government pay boosts since 1962 were "catch-up raises." He added that most of these increases were at the upper levels.

Soviet, U.S. don't play the same game

"How far is it from 10 o'clock in the morning to the Washington Monument?"

That may seem like a strange question, but I sometimes suspect that our negotiations with the Soviet Union are conducted in an equally absurd fashion. They are operating on one wave length, and we on another. But the hook is that we persist in trying to convince ourselves that the gap is not there, that in reality we are communicating on the same level. Earlier columns have referred to the debacle at the UNESCO Conference last year where an American delegate on the resolutions committee innocently approved a Soviet-sponsored motion on freedom of communications. Why not? Don't we believe in freedom of communications? Of course we do, but the resolution actually authorized censorship!

At the last minute someone blew the whistle and the American delegation ended up in the small minority opposing this ploy (as we did later when a similar Soviet resolution whizzed through the United Nations General Assembly). Now at the preparatory talks in Helsinki for the Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe (ESC) Moscow has agreed to include on the agenda an item calling for "the expansion of cultural cooperation and contacts between organizations and individuals, and dissemination of information." Splendid! The U.S.S.R. has backed down from its rigid approach. Douglless it will stop jamming Radio Liberty, open its borders to those who wish to leave, and in general relax its strict censorship.

'False, slanderous propaganda'

But, comrades, there is a footnote: this Soviet "concession" is carefully hedged. This "expansion of cultural cooperation" and "dissemination of information" can in no way be construed to ligitimatize "anti-culture," which is defined as "false, slanderous propaganda." When you realize that "false, slanderous propaganda" includes virtually any reference to the realities of the Communist police state, the footnote suddenly assumes somewhat greater magnitude than the original "concession."

Similarly there is a Conference on Mutual and Balanced Force Reductions (MBFR) scheduled for Vienna. Here the Soviet position is predictable: both sides pull troops out of Europe. We bring our armed forces back 5,000 miles, and they pull their divisions back 500. It has a surface symmetry, but then "How far is it from 10 o'clock in the morning to the Washington Monument?"

The point was made most effectively in testimony before Senator Henry Jackson's subcommittee on National Security and International Operations by William R. Van Cleave, who in 1969-71 was an adviser to the U.S. Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT). Van Cleave's remarks, made originally last summer but cleared only recently, are directed precisely to the American failure to realize that negotiations are a tested Soviet weapons system. In his words, "The U.S. did not approach (the SALT) talks as a bargaining process or a competitive one; instead we approached SALT as a cooperative process — as one in which both sides perceived the objectives and urgencies similarly."

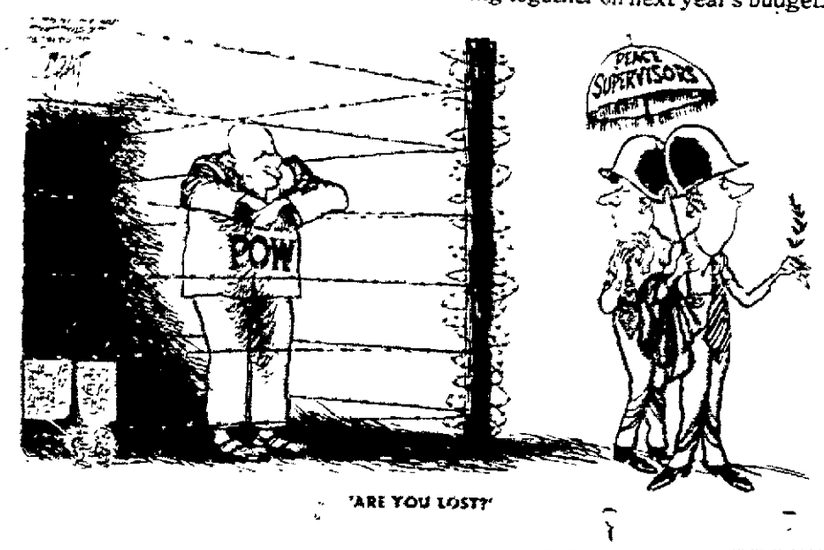

Politics vs. science

The Soviets, he continued, "seem clearly to have regarded SALT as another competitive endeavor, where the objective is unilateral advantage and where one can gain at the expense of the other. . .Arms negotiation, like diplomacy and politics, is to the Soviets a means to maximize political or strategic advantage and gain where possible at the expense of the other side. .The American approach to SALT, accordingly, was primarily analytical and technical, and the Soviet approach primarily political. The U.S. viewed SALT as if it were a scientific-analytical matter. The Soviets regarded it as a political process."

Dr. Van Cleave's testimony is so valuable that one hates to abridge it, but space limitations are such that I can only end by hoping that the President of the United States reads it carefully and briefs his delegates accordingly. The game in Europe is not being played for matchsticks.

State poet publishing new work

100 YEARS AGO
Appleton Post, March 6, 1873.

Miss Ella Wheeler, Wisconsin's favorite poetess, is now engaged in collecting and revising her best poems, preparatory to having them published in book form. The book will contain at least 200 pages and will be handsomely bound. Miss Wheeler has been a regular contributor to many of our best literary publications and all her productions display much literary merit.

She is recognized as one of the most gifted of Wisconsin authors, and the people of the state should take great pride in her labours.

Ernest R. Miron was named general chairman of the Little Chuters' Forty Eight Centennial celebration set for June and sponsored by the American Legion Post with the help of all community organizations. The centennial was to mark the year the first Hollanders came to Little Chute to settle the area under the leadership of the Menominee Indian mission priest, the Rev. Theodore Vanden Broek.

Committee chairmen appointed by Miron included Edward Bankert, Tom Lamers, Bernard Bongers and Willard Van Handel.

Representatives of various village organizations attending the meeting at Village Hall were Frank Reynebeau, Martin Lamers, John Wildenberg, S. J. Vanden Berg, Harold Vander Velden, Phillip Cornelius, Gerald Van Hoof, Henry W. Bongers, the Rev. Msgr. John J. Ann Landers

If we could see ourselves...

Dear Ann Landers: I couldn't possibly say this to any of the men who need to hear it, so will you please be an angel and put my letter in the paper? It would be an act of charity.

As time goes on I keep seeing more men who touch up their hair. I hesitate to say "dye" because some of the fellows are doing other things to get rid of the grey. Now please understand, I have no objections to this. In fact, it really does take several years off the age of a man whose face is unlined, but a great many men who use color are getting it too dark and it makes them look older (and more desperate) instead of younger.

Nobody expects a man over 50 to have jet black or bright brown hair. Occasionally it does occur, but it's a rarity. So let this letter be a word to the wise. At least 60 per cent of the men who are dying to look younger are botching it. One of the reasons is that they let their wives do the job. Or worse yet, they do it themselves. Too bad people can't see themselves as others see them, isn't it? —The Coward

Dear T.C.: If people could see themselves as others see them, they'd get their eyes examined.

I appreciate your letter and thank you for writing it. I couldn't agree more. As for grey hair—actually I love it. On other people.

Dear Ann Landers: A few months ago our 17-year-old son announced he was going steady with a 16-year-old girl. My husband and I expressed our disapproval but he continued to date the girl steadily.

Now I have concrete evidence that they are having sexual relations. I confess I learned it by prying through our son's belongings. I haven't told him because I feel guilty and don't want him to know. That very night we insisted that he break up with the girl. He refused, saying he must be allowed to lead his own life.

Both my husband and I want to lay the law down and say, "You can lead your own life when you are 18—and this means paying for room and board and college, if you want to go."

I hope we aren't too late. The girl could be pregnant. Then what?

We will do nothing till we hear from you. Please hurry. —Troubled In Connecticut

Dear Trouble: I doubt that the girl is pregnant—based on "the evidence." The central problem is your relationship with your son, which has reached a crisis. You can be sure that the more you insist he give up the girl, the more determined he will be to keep seeing her. I suggest that you and your husband discuss this situation with a counselor. (Hartford has superb counseling facilities.) Perhaps the boy will go for a session or two when he sees you are making an effort to learn how to deal with the problem rationally, instead of overreacting and issuing ultimatums.

Dear Ann Landers: The other evening a group of us were talking about small symptoms of insecurity. A certain name came up and someone said, "Yes, I notice he always wears his 'Brain Badge,' that Phi Beta Kappa key, dangling from his watch chain. Too bad a man of his accomplishments feels the need to advertise the fact that he's smart." Do you agree? I do not.—Scranton, Pa.

Dear Scranton: It may be a touch cornball but a Phi Beta Kappa key does mean something.

ITEM UNDER MAYOR'S BUSINESS
COMMON COUNCIL MEETING OF FEBRUARY 21, 1973

Concerning the new police station — As you know, at yesterday's meeting of the Board of Public Works, an architect was recommended by the Architect Selection Committee, and you will be voting on the selection of that architect tonight. I believe it would be appropriate for me to comment on this matter now, particularly in view of the fact that many aldermen were not present for the discussion of the matter at the Board of Public Works meeting.

On January 17th, the Common Council acted to create the Architect Selection Committee, consisting of the Mayor, the Chairman and Vice-Chairman of the Public Safety Committee, the Police Chief, and the Director of Public Works. The Committee met on January 27th, for 4 hours, on February 1st, for 9 hours, on February 6th, for 3 hours, on February 9th, for 4 hours, on February 16th, for 17 hours — for a total of 37 hours. The first of these meetings was held with the police station construction planning consultant being provided by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration; the remaining meetings dealt specifically with the screening of architects, with the last meeting involving interviews with six architectural firms.

The Architect Selection Committee had as its objective the selecting of the best possible architect. It became apparent very early that this would be a very difficult task, and a task involving very subjective judgments. As to the difficulty — it would have been easier if we were seeking only to hire a qualified firm, or a fine firm, for there were a great many of these to choose from. As to the subjective judgment factor — obviously trying to judge the quality of a firm's design ability, approach to a problem, and quality of architecture involves many subjective judgments.

The Committee gave thorough and careful consideration to the question of the utilization of local architects.

The Committee finally narrowed down the list of over 30 interested firms to the following 6, who were invited to interview:

Harry Weese & Associates; Brust & Brust Inc.; Hockner, Schroeder, Roslandsky & Associates Inc.; John J. Flad and Associates; the Cerny Associates, Inc.; and C. F. Murphy Associates.

The interviewing procedure involved 1 hour and 15 minute interviews with the first 30 minutes devoted to architect presentations and the remaining 45 minutes to questions.

The Committee was careful to not only interview firms but to request the presence during the interview of those principles from each firm who would be working on the project, including the design architect and the project architect. This was an important consideration to assure the Committee they were not receiving a "sales pitch" but rather getting a feeling for those who would work on the project and their relationship toward the client. Each of the firms interviewed was judged based on the materials submitted and response to the Committee's questions. The specific areas to which the Committee addressed its questions and on which each firm was assessed included:

a) Programming Capability — Assessment of the process used by the firm in developing a program and analyzing the project, including integration of the client's needs.

b) Sensitivity to Problem — Each firm was questioned as to how they perceived the problem of designing and functioning of a police station as being different from other types of buildings, giving special consideration to what response each gave toward integration of community aspects into the project.

c) Responsiveness — Firm's general presentation and its attitude toward the project, including individual's response to questions.

d) Interest and Enthusiasm — This element received special emphasis by Committee members. The interest, enthusiasm and reasons the firm was interested were felt to be especially important to establishing a good working relationship and deriving the best project.

e) Degree of Expertise and Experience — Individuals were questioned as to their background, their design ability and their experience on other projects. This element was especially important in regard to the design architect and project architect.

f) Capability — The Design ability of the design architect based on previous completed projects was assessed in relation to the Proposed Appleton Police Station.

g) Architect's Presentation — Each firm's presentation was reviewed as to appropriateness to the project.

h) Credentials — Each firm and individual was judged as to credentials and general background and experience. This included judging of all written materials presented to the Committee.

Based upon the foregoing, the Architect Selection Committee made the following unanimous recommendation to the Board of Public Works:

C. F. Murphy Associates of 225 South Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois, be retained as the architect and engineer for the Appleton Police Station Project; that the Architect Selection Committee be authorized to negotiate all terms and conditions of a mutually acceptable contract covering the full services required for the successful completion of the project, and that said contract be presented to the Common Council for its approval.

Due to a concern expressed by two aldermen at the Board of Public Works, the word "retained" in the recommendation was changed to "selected".

Two questions have arisen at or since the meeting of the Board of Public Works which I believe should be addressed at this time.

The first has to do with the fact that the last four of the five meetings referred to earlier were held behind closed doors.

The Architect Selection Committee was unanimous in its judgment that the Committee's meetings to screen architects should have been held in executive session and that such sessions are consistent with the provision of State Statutes which allows for such sessions for conducting "public business which for competitive or bargaining reasons requires closed sessions." It is also our understanding that the executive session procedure is the common practice throughout the state in the selection of architects for public facilities.

The actual selection of the architect is being held in open Board of Public Works and Common Council meetings.

There does seem to be some question as to whether notice for such meetings is required. State Statutes are silent on this subject. I have asked our City Attorney to look into this matter to clarify the question of meeting notice requirements.

I have heard that legislation has been proposed in this session of the legislature to require notice for executive session meetings.

The second question has to do with the fact that new procedures constituting a departure from those used in the past are being utilized with this project. It is certainly true to say that we are utilizing new procedures, which the Committee believes represent a significant improvement over former methods. We have already done many things differently with this project, including the utilization of a special Site Criteria Advisory Committee and the utilization of the services of a police station construction consultant. We have been given strong reason to believe that new police stations throughout the country do not meet high standards of quality, and we are striving to overcome that problem with our Appleton facility.

One of our objectives is to give both the Community at large and the Common Council a greater voice in the police station project. We have already taken significant steps in this effort and we will continue to do so.

As far as the Council goes, there are basically two expenditures which must be approved — one for the police station and one for the architect.

You are already well familiar with the fact that you must act on the raising of the money for the construction of the facility.

Beyond that, you will be asked to act on the hiring and paying of an architect. It is our intention to increase the Council's involvement in this process. Evidently in the past the policy has been to select an architect and then authorize the Mayor and the Clerk to enter into a contract. We are including an additional step — asking the Council to approve the actual contract. Although some people may believe that all architectural contracts are the same, this is not actually the case. Both the architect's fee and the range of services to be included within that fee are negotiable, and we feel that the Council should have the opportunity to see the contract and to act upon it.

Beyond this, it will be my recommendation that the contract be written so as to provide for three more Council approvals:

1) Approval of the schematic design and schematic design budget. At this point you will have a good picture of the building and its cost. At this point the contract normally calls for the architect to have earned 15% of his fee.

2) Approval of the design development drawings. At this point you will have a very definitive picture of the building and its cost. At this point, the contract normally calls for the architect to have earned 35% of his fee.

3) Approval of the letting of the general construction contract. At this point the contract normally calls for the architect to have earned 75% of his fee.

Thus, in addition to approval of the contract itself, you would be asked for three additional approvals — at the end of the schematic design phase, at the end of the design development phase, and at the end of the construction document phase.

Heavy yarn needed for hanger project

BY CAPPY DICK

The boy or girl who uses wire coat hangers in his or her clothes closet can turn the plain hangers into objects of eye-pleasing color by following today's fun-project plan.

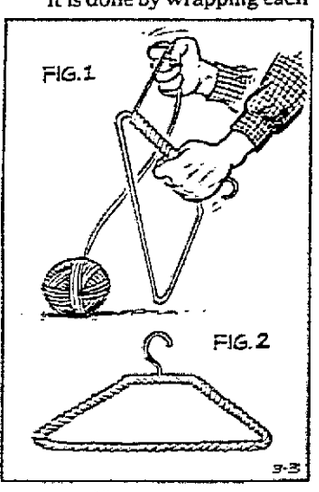

It is done by wrapping each hanger with heavy yarn as the boy is doing in Figure 1.

Wrap every bit of the hanger except the hook (see Figure 2). Apply the yarn tightly, tying the starting end around the base of the hook and tying the final end at the same place when the wrapping has been completed. The next step is to wind a fairly wide spiral of silk thread of a matching color, securing it by sewing it into the yarn at intervals of two or three inches. The silk thread will help keep the yarn in place when garments are slipped onto and off the hanger.

If you prefer to wrap only a few of your hangers, you could limit the work to those you will use for the coats and jackets of your guests.

A multi-colored effect can be accomplished by using several colors of yarn, tying the colors end to end as you wrap portions of the hanger.

Monday: lots more good fun for every boy and girl.

Play for kids opened today

Before there was a Post-Crescent, longer ago even than radio or books, folks depended on wandering minstrels and peddlers for news of the world.

Children's Theater's current production, "Fally-Downy and the Witch," which opened this afternoon at Madison Junior High School and continues at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow and next Saturday and Sunday, begins with just such a peddler who tells the tale of Gina and Renzo and their friend, Fally Downy.

According to the tale, the three children became separated while berry picking. Gina and Renzo bump into the witch of the black forest, who promptly locks them in a cage. Fally-Downy, in the course of a truly-heroic rescue, runs a race with the witch, and naturally loses because he's under a "fally Downy" spell.

Gina wishes for their freedom and a magic princess appears. The witch is turned to stone and everyone lives happily everafter.

At least, that's what the peddler reported.

Playing Gina and Renzo are Julia Sensenbrenner and Jon Bassewitz. John Burkhardt is Fally-Downy and Jane Peldo portrays the witch. Julie Kaemmerer is the princess and Charles Kolb the story-telling peddler.

The play was written by Mary Paul Strong and this production was directed by Roberta Burkhardt.

Courts

NEENAH — A young Neenah man who pleaded guilty on Jan. 17 to aiding a felony theft was adjudged guilty Wednesday in County Court.

A presentence investigation is continuing for the man, Reed G. Losse, 19, 864 Paynes Point Beach Road. Sentencing has been set for March 21.

Judge James V. Sitter declined to accept the guilty plea in January so the officer who filed the complaint could testify and Losse could be further questioned.

The felony charge stemmed from the Sept. 3, 1972, theft of cameras and camera equipment from a car parked at the Holiday Inn in the Town of Menasha.

OSHKOSH — A composition by Rolv Yttrehus on the faculty of the University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh has been selected for performance on the International Society for Contemporary Music Festival in New York City.

The performance will be Sunday at Carnegie Recital Hall and will be broadcast live over WNYC.

His composition, entitled "Sextet," is written for violin, double bass, trumpet, French horn, piano and percussion. It was premiered last summer at the Composers Conference in Johnson, Vt., and was heard recently on the Wisconsin Educational FM Network's Sunday Evening Concert program.

After receiving a master of music degree from the University of Michigan, he studied for four and one-half years in Europe, including 18 months with Nadia Boulanger in Paris and two years in Rome with Goffredo Petrassi at the Accademia di Santa Cecelia from which he received an artistic diploma. In addition to Mlle. Boulanger his teachers have been Ross Lee Finney, Roger Sessions and Aaron Copland.

In 1971 Yttrehus' "Music for Winds, Percussion, Cello and Voices" was performed on the Fromm Festival of Contemporary Music in Tanglewood, Mass., under the supervision of Gunther Schuller.

Yttrehus is associate professor of music and director of the electronic music studio at UW-Oshkosh. He taught previously at the University of Missouri and Purdue University.

Two linked pilots

8-10 Channel 5 — Saturday Night At The Movies: A Time for Love is a pilot for a series in which two stories will be told, loosely linked together. For instance, in the first we see the cover of a phonograph album and the singer is the focal point of the second story. Stirling Silliphant wrote and produced these two good, slick stories. The first, filmed mostly at the Arizona-Biltmore Hotel, has John Davidson as a young executive who "makes his age," $28,000 a year. He goes to Phoenix with boss Jack Cassidy for a convention, leaving behind the wealthy, proper girl he will soon marry. In Phoenix, he meets a free spirit (Lauren Hutton), a model who confuses and intrigues him. At the end of their story, a rock star, complete with entourage arrives at the hotel for a concert. Christopher Mitchum, who bears a strong resemblance to his father, Robert, is the rock star. Overwhelmed by the action around him, he runs away to California where he meets and falls in love with a young teacher of deaf children (Bonnie Bedelia).

4-5:30 Channels 9-11 — Wide World of Sports covers the World Figure Skating Championships from Bratislava, Czechoslovakia, with commentary by Jim McKay and Dick Button.

7-7:30 Channels 9-11 — Here We Go Again has a good episode with talented Nita Talbot in the spotlight. She meets a charming man (Michael Tolan) in the supermarket and it's love. Unfortunately, he works in New York — in publishing — but he comes out to L.A. every two weeks and their romance goes swimmingly until . . . But it's best not to know how this turns out.

7-8 Channel 5 — Boot, the cute dog who belongs to the paramedics on Emergency!, is the focal point tonight. He's off his feed and acting listless and the paramedics are worried. What is wrong is something dog owners know about.

7:30-8 Channels 9-11 — Shirley Booth has some lovely moments on A Touch Of Grace as she decides to take driving lessons, then has to win over her family to that idea.

8-8:30 Channels 2-7 — The Mary Tyler Moore Show has the last new episode of the season, with Rhoda (Valerie Harper) starting her own plant business with money Mary has loaned her. Mary would have liked spending the money on a new car, but when a friend needs help, what's to do?

8:30-9 Channels 2-7 — The Bob Newhart Show is all about plans the Hartleys have made for a 63-day cruise. Will Bob go? Will he be able to leave his group patients who are suddenly doing so well? Will Emily (Suzanne Pleshette) pack everything in the apartment? Will they ever find the bed in their tiny stateroom?

9-10 Channels 9-11 — Jigsaw is back to the old format with Dain (James Wainwright) working for the state missing persons bureau, in a show filmed last June. There are two cases with Dain getting emotionally involved in both. One concerns a teen-aged boy (Stefan Arngrim) who shoots Dain, who can understand the boy's anger. The other is a beautiful, dying girl (Christine Belford) and he can understand her need to run away too.

9-10:30 Channels 2-7 — The 15th annual Grammy Awards ceremonies take place this evening honoring outstanding achievement in the field of music. Andy Williams hosts for the third consecutive year. The presentation is held in the Tennessee Theatre in Nashville.

Wide musical variety at Oshkosh

OSHKOSH — A wide variety of music is planned for the annual Tour-Alumni Concert of the University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh's Wind Ensemble and Titan Band at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in the Music Hall of the university's Arts and Communication Center.

The concert will feature selections from the spring tours repertoire of both organizations. A "pops concert" variety of programming has made this concert a popular event among the many free programs sponsored by the UWO music department and open to the public.

The Titan Band program, selected by Dr. Alvin J. Curtis, its director, includes the overture to "An Italian in Algiers" by Rossini, "Pageant" by Vincent Persichetti and "Italian Polka" by Rachmaninoff.

Graduate student David Gillingham will be featured in a baritone horn solo, "Morceau Symphonique" by Alexandre Guilmant.

Dr. Thomas Neice, director of the University Wind Ensemble, lists the second half of the program to include "Flight of the Bumblebee," "Three Dance Episodes" by Leonard Bernstein, "Tortilla Flats and Sharps" with a jazz trumpet solo by Paul Butcher, "Reflections" with a flute solo by Carleen Binder and "Nobles of the Mystic Shrine" by John Philip Sousa.

Fog has hit the Twin Cities for the past couple of days and the old saying about March "in like a lamb and out like a lion" is a bit confusing at this point. How do you classify fog? At least, it's better than snow — or is it? (Post-Crescent Photo)

Wage hike, policy draft for Neenah police boat

BY DOUG KOPLIEN
Post-Crescent staff writer

NEENAH — Although a wage increase for the Neenah police boat crew is in the offing, the increase is just a preliminary to drafting a general policy to govern the boat's operation in normal and emergency situations.

After an informal hearing at Friday morning's finance committee meeting, Hauser said he'd recommend a $1 an hour wage increase to bring wages up to $4 an hour for the crew and $5 an hour for the pilot.

The issue came to the committee via a letter from Sgt. Duane "Buzz" Nelson, skipper, who, last fall, had asked for the wage hike but was turned down as the final budget document was being prepared.

It was the mid-air collision of two commercial aircraft that prompted the request for wage increases and for formal operational policies. Nelson pointed out that the boat crew "is working side by side with policemen," were being paid only about half as much as the police.

The salvage operation resulted in a bill of about $14,000 that the city submitted to the Federal Transportation and Safety Board which coordinated salvage effort.

During the operation, Nelson pointed out that he had reached an agreement with a FTSB official on a wage scale. However, it took until about a month ago for the city, federal government and representatives of the two airlines to reach a final agreement for 90 per cent of what the city asked.

The men who manned the boat still haven't been paid, and Nelson, backed up by Police Chief Lawrence Malouf, asked that the payment be made.

The committee recommended the payment, at the 90 per cent level from the contingency fund to be replaced when the check arrives from the federal government.

But, Ald. Michael G. Ellis, while agreeing that the men should be paid "argued that the air crash was a one-time thing and that a policy and wage scales should not be built around that situation.

"I think we need a normal operating policy and one which would cover emergency situations. However, I don't think it's the finance committee which should do it — we don't have the expertise," Ellis said.

The committee then directed Malouf to draft what he thought was a good two-pronged policy and submit it to the health and social services committee. It would then come to the council via that committee.

The $1 across-the-board wage increases, intended to be retroactive to Jan. 1, 1973, would not go to the council until there's been a check on the federal wage-price freeze guideline.

Neenah building starting to stir

NEENAH — With homebuilding clipping along at five times the pace of a year ago, the city appears to be pulling out of the economic doldrums.

According to two month statistics released this week by Assessor Earl Page, permits for $1,170,030 were issued during January and February.

Again, February set the pace with the bulk $940,330 worth being issued during the 28-day month. In 1972, of a total of $825,202 permits issued for the first two months, $805,217 came in February.

It's the home building industry which has been showing increases. With 15 new home permits issued by the end of February this year, the pace is five times greater than 1972 when only 3 permits had been issued during the first two months.

Although all building is showing some gains, this year, as in 1972, there was a single permit which accounted for the lion's share of the construction.

The permit for the Primrose Apartments was $793,000 this year while last year the permit for the new Marine National Bank of Neenah made up for $780,000.

In addition to the 72-unit Primrose complex, permits have been issued for 13 single family homes valued at $210,000 and another 18-unit apartment on the south side for $100,000. Others include a garage, 16 residential remodelings; three non-residential remodelings, a moving and three wrecking permits.

Rural pressure builds to change Neenah busing

NEENAH —Two town chairmen will attend the school board's regular monthly meeting on Monday and are encouraging others to do the same in order to voice opinions on the controversial new busing system.

Town of Menasha Chairman Roland Kampo and Town of Clayton Chairman Arden Schroeder plan to be present at the 7:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. session during which the board hears from the community.

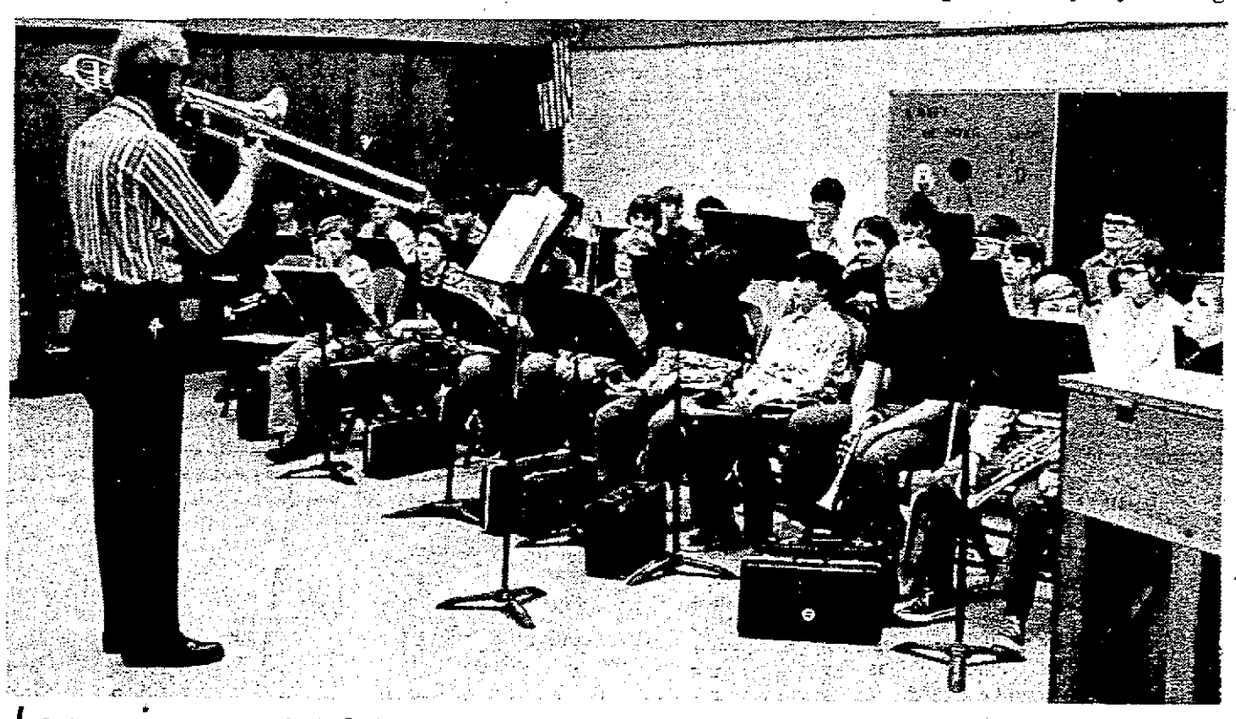

Both Kampo and Schroeder and Town of Neenah chairman Kenneth Heinz talked with school officials a week ago about the new bus routes. They had asked for a fiscal control body meeting in order to meet officially with the school board. Mayor Roman Hauser, however, cancelled the session after school board president Neal Perry said it was too early to evaluate the revised bus routes.

The new busing system went into effect Monday. Since then parents in rural areas served by the Neenah School District have objected to the reduction in service extended walking distances to pick-up points have exposed students to hazardous conditions, parents say.

On the agenda for the regular meeting is a report by Title III project director Steven Udvari, reports on school enrollments and boundaries, report on the development of management by objectives, staffing for 1973-74, and a report on legislation affecting education. Negotiations and budget plans for 1974 will also be discussed.

The board convenes at 4:30 p.m. in the central offices at 410 S. Commercial.

Youths questioned on vandalism

MENASHA — Several children involved in a breakin of the Gibson Co. Sunday are now being questioned by authorities about several acts of vandalism which occurred last week.

A number of camper trailers, stored behind Drucks Plumbing Co. warehouse at Third and Racine streets, were ranscaked Friday night and the side and back windows on the trailers smashed. A tool box, a stove lighter and other items were reported missing.

An unreported number of lawn fertilizer bags, owned by Menasha OK Hardware and stored behind Drucks Electric, 234 Main St., were slashed open sometime during the weekend.

Charges set for 1973 Neenah street program

NEENAH — Four major paving projects, along with special assessments, will be recommended to the city council Wednesday by the street and public works committee.

The projects and their costs are: — Byrd Avenue, from Tullar Road to Gillingham Road, $105,000 with residential assessment of $6.46 per foot and non-residential of $16.15.

— Byrd Avenue from the Soo Line tracks to Commercial Street, $221,000 with residential assessment of $7.18 per foot and non-residential assessment of $23.90.

—Cecil Street from the slough bridge to Harrison Street, $154,000 with residential assessment of $3.65 and non-residential of $12.15.

— Gillingham Road from Byrd Avenue to Gay Drive, $33,200 with non-residential assessment of $16.15 and no residential assessment.

The proposed Cecil Street assessment is lower than the rest, Public Works Director Wayne Bryan said, because there is $70,000 in federal aid toward that project and that must be subtracted before the assessments are figured.

Bryan suggested the committee consider averaging the assessments so each would be the same. Ald. Robert Troyer opposed this, saying that the federal funds were applied to Cecil Street because of its heavier use and the street improvement would have less direct benefit to the residents on it.

Committee Chairman Donald Steber agreed. "I suggest we stick with our game plan," he said, referring to the council's assessment policy. "Maybe in the future someone can change it."

Cecil Street and Byrd Avenue from the Soo Line tracks to Commercial Street call for 48-foot roadways with 9-inch pavement. Byrd Avenue between Tullar and Gillingham roads, and Gillingham Road from Byrd to Gay Drive are scheduled as 36-foot roadways with 7-inch thick concrete.

Troyer challenged the 36-foot roadway for the western segment of Byrd, saying it should be at least 40 feet.

He asked City Planner George Bauman what the traffic count was on that portion of Byrd. Bauman said it presently was about 2,200 cars a day and he did not see any need for a wider street. "When U. S. 41 becomes a controlled-access road Byrd will become just a local street," Bauman said. He added that he could foresee the traffic count doubling over the next 20 years.

Troyer said he was concerned that with a 36-foot street there would be no room for parking if they had to go to four lanes of traffic.

Bauman answered that four lanes was not needed until a traffic count reached about 8,000 cars. He noted that Oak Street, which is 36-feet wide, was carrying about 15,000 cars.

Bryan said that to go from 36 to 40 feet would cost about $11,000 more.

Purchase of four pieces of road equipment also was recommended by the committee at a total cost of $67,423. The equipment includes a Wabco road grader, $29,680; a Ford truck chassis with a Leach Sanicruiser garbage box, $17,596; a Wausau snow blower, $11,375, and a 5-yard dump truck, $8,672.

The only discussion involved the grader purchase where there was a spread of $6,000 between the high and low bidder. The Wabco was second low bid, while the grader recommended by the department, Gallion, at $31,850, was second high bidder.

Bryan said he had the city's three grader operators test all five graders and rate them on a number of points. He said they rated the Gallion first, primarily because they were most familiar with it. The city now has three Gallions. The operators rated the Wabco second.

The low bid machine was rated the lowest of the five by the operators, Bryan said.

Troyer suggested that the preference of the operators for Gallion was probably partly because of "resistance to change." He said he could not justify spending 10 or 15 per cent more if the Wabco was a proven machine.

Ald. Donald Otto agreed and made the motion to accept the Wabco bid.

All of the other bids recommended were the low bids on the equipment.

Boy found delinquent; ordered sent to Wales

NEENAH — A 15 year-old Neenah youth was found delinquent on two counts by Judge James Sarres Thursday and ordered sent to the Wales school for boys.

The youth was charged with operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent on Jan. 13. The youth drove a 1970 tractor truck owned by Schneider Truck Lines on West Cecil Street. A second charge of running away from a group home from Jan. 13 to Feb. 5 was brought against the youth. He was found to be in need of supervision on that count.

A 14 year-old Neenah youth was found delinquent and placed on two years supervision to the Department of Health and Social Services for placement at the Norris Foundation when he faced a charge of theft. The youth dismantled a set of wheels and axle, a six horsepower engine and drive belts from a mixer owned by Miller Masonry, an Appleton firm, and carried them away from the company's Commercial Street construction site on Jan. 27. The equipment was valued at $600.

Restitution in the case was ordered handled by civil action.

Ordinance may control Neenah snow shoveling

NEENAH — The finance committee, while recommending that the current sidewalk shoveling policy stand, had suggested that an ordinance be drafted so residents who don't clear snow from the walks can be prosecuted in court.

A new policy, calling for a flat $5 administration fee, plus $13 an hour for time spent, went into effect on Jan. 1. It has since drawn a lot of criticism especially from persons who don't like the charges and aren't satisfied with the city's shoveling performance.

Usually a sidewalk which hasn't been cleared after two days is cleared by the city and a bill sent to the resident.

Ald. Michael G. Ellis recommended that the current policy, despite its shortcoming should remain in force until an ordinance can be adopted making it a violation to leave a sidewalk unshoveled.

"That way everyone in the city will know the score just like they do now for not leaving cars parked on the street," he said.

He also pointed to the police as "being in the best position to see if a sidewalk hasn't been cleared."

"Right now we have a system which the public doesn't like; has been ineffective, and it's costing tax money to do it," he said.

Under an ordinance, "The city could get out of the sidewalk shoveling business and use these men in other more important city business."

In other action, the committee:

—Heard Ald. Jeffry Smith report that two meetings have been held on the negotiations with the Town of Neenah on charges for the town using city sewers. He said the aim is two fold, "first, settle the Courtney Place operational cost, and second, settling the whole question of how the town is going to participate in the city sewer program."

Ellis took issue with the direction and argued that "When you settle for one, you're in effect, negating negotiations for the other. I'm afraid that a small roadblock in the smaller one will hold up the entire thing."

Smith rebuttled, "No. The first thing is the operational contract for the service we've been giving them for several years. The second part will be for future services and those pipes won't even be in the ground for two years."

— Took no action on a Lion's Club request for a $10 advertisement in its annual publication after Mayor Roman V. Hauser said, "This shouldn't even have come to this committee. It should have just been handled."

— Recommended the creation and filling of the position of assistant director of public works. The job had been in the 1973 budget.

— Referred to the city attorney a complaint that the city had built a sidewalk on private property in the 1300 block of S. Park Avenue. Wayne Bryan, public works director, reported, in a memo, that he thought the city should probably negotiate for an easement or purchase.

—Told Water Works Supt. John Jurgenson that an updated user fee would be uniform and not applied on a variable basis. Jurgenson had expressed concern because if it was intended to be variable his department would need machinery with that capacity.

Neenah snowmo alert

NEENAH — The light atop the Neenah water tower, used this winter as a beacon to guide snowmobilers and fishermen off of Lake Winnebago, has been turned off for the season.

Police department officials stated Saturday that warm, rainy weather has rapidly deteriorated the ice on the lake and warn snowmobilers and fishermen to exercise extreme caution when traveling on the lake.

Fox Valley socked in by fog

Visibility zero

The gate signs at Outagamie County Airport disappear into the heavy fog, but there aren't any passengers to use them anyway. There have been no flights in or out of the field since 6 p.m. Thursday and Air Wisconsin officials have no idea when the situation will improve. (Post-Crescent Photo)

The Fox Valley and indeed most of Wisconsin is grounded.

Nature has once again proved she's boss and there are airplanes large and small all over the state attesting to her superiority.

The latest weather whim is fog — thick, white soupy fog — which has shrouded at least this part of Wisconsin for two days now and doesn't offer any signs of leaving. Weathermen say it's one of the penalties we have to pay for having such a mild winter.

No flights have come in or flown out of Outagamie County Airport in Appleton since 6 p.m. Thursday. At Green Bay's Austin Straubel Field the grounding began even earlier, at 1 p.m. Thursday, while at Wittman Field in Oshkosh the last plane to leave the field did so at 7 a.m. Friday.

James Jansen, superintendent of stations for Air Wisconsin at Outagamie, said this morning that officials had scheduled an extra flight for this morning to alleviate the backup, but that, of course, had to be canceled. He said the station manager's latest word from weather officials was that the fog would be around until noon Sunday.

Weather forecasters at the United States Weather Station in Green Bay wouldn't be so specific, but did say that a cold front in western Wisconsin will chase the fog away as it moves this direction. They said the front is expected in the Fox Cities area early Sunday morning.

However, forecasters warn that it will take longer for the fog-lifting front to reach Milwaukee and Chicago. At the same time, they point out, it also will move the fog eastward toward Detroit and other eastern cities, so air flights in that direction may be affected even longer.

Air Wisconsin officials say that they had 12 flights stranded in Chicago and three in Minneapolis on Friday, plus five others that were grounded here. An equal number of scheduled flights can expect to be affected today.

At Austin Straubel Field, North Central Airlines officials said this morning that 32 flights are scheduled in a normal day, so that at 1 p.m. today a total of 64 flights will have been canceled.

North Central spokesmen at both Green Bay and Oshkosh airports said they were having no passenger problems at the terminals because most people had been contacted in advance and had not come to the fields.

Air Wisconsin officials this morning said no one was at the terminal. They would not estimate how many people had been inconvenienced by the heavy fog.

Weathermen this morning reported that visibility was zero to one-eighth mile at Madison, Milwaukee, Manitowoc, Marinette-Menominee and Escanaba. At Chicago's O'Hare Field, the ceiling was 100 feet, but visibility also was one-eighth mile.

Airline officials at all three Fox Cities area fields admitted they had no idea when their planes would get off the ground, but added that passengers would be notified.

Audit blasts justice council budget request

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A stiff federal-state audit released Friday blasted the administration of the controversy-plagued state Council on Criminal Justice as the new director of the agency asked legislative approval of a proposed $28.9 million budget on his second day on the job.

Robert Stonek told the legislature's Joint Committee on Finance that "far less than 1 per cent of our expenditures have been questioned" as the state auditor released a combined study which challenged administrative and fiscal controls in the agency.

Stonek was appointed by Gov. Patrick J. Lucey to replace Walter Kelly as executive director of the agency, target of political fire within the state and attacks from Congressional comptrollers.

Kelly was fired by Lucey just a year after being named to the job by the chief executive. Lucey's staff listed complaints from local officials about Kelly's personality and administrative techniques in dealing with local agencies as chief among the reasons for the unprecedented dismissal.

Local officials, top Lucey aides explained in detail at the time of the firing, had complained to the governor that they could no longer work with Kelly in his position.

Lucey asked Kelly to stay in his post until the federal-state audit was released. The audit grows out of congressional charges about the handling of contracts for radio equipment for Wisconsin law enforcement agencies under the state program which administers funds of the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

The charges, which originated before Kelly was named to the post by Lucey, indicated that law enforcement radio contracts were handled on other than a competitive low bid system in a number of instances. One radio firm allegedly garnered more than 90 per cent of the business, handled under the Council on Criminal Justice program.

The federal-state audit, released by State Auditor Robert Ringwood, attacked continuing administrative policies within the state council and the handling of selected grants uncovered during a spot check of recent local assistance projects conducted by the state agency.

Ringwood reported that:

—The federal program has rejected a council plan for an employe merit system proposed under Kelly's administration and outside of regular state civil service. The council has done nothing about the federal rejection and continues to operate without an approved merit plan, Ringwood reported. Lucey moved the council, formerly in the state Justice Department, into the executive office early in his administration and exempted its workings from civil service procedures, leading to charges of "patronage".

— The state council has failed to get federal approval for the use of $124,000 in federal funds for the payment of regional planners working under that system, despite a clear federal policy requiring that approval in writing before those funds are used in such a manner.

— The state council allowed more than $164,000 in available federal funds earmarked for Wisconsin to lapse because it was unable to complete programs with the money within the period of the grant program.

— Three of 37 spot-checked grants administered by the agency "warrant corrective action," in Ringwood's words. "Our audit did not disclose any serious violations or irregularities," he reported, but added that more than $1,600 in specific expenditures should be challenged —including the purchase of a $56 bathroom scale and a $205 used refrigerator at a drug addiction center in Racine.

Administrative challenges were made to agency operations involving controls over the amount of time employes spend on the job and fiscal operations of the agency and local agencies awarded the grants.

Stonek said that the report questioned only about "0.15 per cent of the expenditures of the agency," and received little questioning from finance committee members who had earlier postponed consideration of the Council's proposed 1973-75 budget until the new director was on the job.

Lucey's proposed budget for the agency calls for the expenditure of $3.1 million in state tax funds during the coming two years, along with $25.8 million in expected federal funds for the state.

Nelson hears plea for OEO

By CLIFF MILLER
Post-Crescent staff writer

GREEN BAY—Citizens, elected officials and public and private social service agency professionals from 13 Northeastern Wisconsin counties pleaded Friday for preservation of health, welfare and manpower programs that would be cut back or eliminated if Congress adopted President Nixon's proposed budget.

The prime object of their defense was the network of Community Action Programs which they said knit local citizens and officials together in a multi-faceted attack on poverty.

They appeared before Sen. Gaylord Nelson in the first of five one-man hearings to be held around the state by the Wisconsin Democrat.

As chairman of the Senate subcommittee on employment, manpower and poverty, Nelson plans during the next two weeks to continue the hearings on Nixon poverty budget proposals in Superior, Milwaukee, Eau Claire and Madison.

He heard 45 persons testify Friday in Green Bay City Hall, while an overflow audience listened in the city council chambers. The chamber holds 200 persons, and many listened awhile and left, with others taking their places. Others left without hearing the proceedings, delayed 3 hours as Nelson drove from Madison in dense fog.

One of the largest delegations was a busload of Winnebago and Fond du Lac County citizens involved in the CAP programs there. Besides personal testimony by several spokesmen, they delivered a prepared outline of the program of their organization, ADVOCAP, Inc., which said the programs would continue but would be severely curtailed under the Nixon budget proposals.

Among proposals in the budget are dismantling of the Office of Economic Opportunity and discontinuation of CAP funds entirely.

Issuing expecially strong pleas for continuation of the CAP programs were spokesmen for the Menominee Indians and for the Oneida Tribe of Wisconsin, Inc., who said their people are heavily dependent on the programs for employment and community services.

Other spokesmen defended individual programs which in many cases come under a local CAP agency's umbrella, including Neighborhood Youth Corps, job training and placement, child day-care centers and the like. Housing authorities and city and county governments also were represented.

U.S. Rep. William Steiger, R Oshkosh, long a backer of at least some OEO programs, sent a telegram read by one witness declaring support for CAP's and other OEO services, though also acknowledging imperfections in the agency.

Newly elected State Rep. Richard Flintrop, D-Oshkosh, called CAP's "the best instruments we have yet devised" for fighting poverty and helping the poor help themselves.

Mona Stricher said the Winnebago-Fond du Lac ADVOCAP helps Senior Citizens of Winnebago County provide nutritious meals for elderly Neenah-Menasha area residents. "Getting a meal a day means their health and happiness."

Cindy Sitter described herself as a former recipient of Aid to Families of Dependent Children (AFDC) who is now employed by ADVOCAP and has taken university courses.

"We are not completely on welfare—we are contributing to the community and we are helping people," she said.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Elger said another ADVOCAP-assisted organization, Abilities Unlimited of Winnebago County, helped Elger find summertime work in a canning factory. Elger is handicapped. Mrs. Elger said they had a new house since last July and have become active in community work for the first time. Elger said his health is better and he loses excess weight when he is working.

Most of the spokesmen were either professionals employed in social work, health, manpower activities or education, or were elected officials.

Charles Fernandez, an instructor at Fox Valley Technical Institute, Appleton, and president of LaRaza, Inc., a five-county organization for Spanish Americans, defended Manpower Development and Training Act (MDTA) programs.

LaRaza relies on the programs for job training,

Fernandez said MDTA job-training programs have helped train LaRaza beneficiaries, and said the result is productive citizens who quickly overcome previous cultural and language handicaps. "The language barrier seems to disappear very quickly when a man has a job," said Fernandez.

Speaking as a taxpayer, he added that he doesn't mind paying for that type of program, "But I'll be darned if I'm going to have my children pay to take care of the children of these people who we neglect today."

The testimony was almost unanimously in opposition to the proposed cutbacks, though some elected officials suggested that ineffective programs should be eliminated. But they failed to identify those programs.

Brown County Executive Don Holloway said it is difficult to evaluate the administration proposals since not all details have yet been given. He said urban programs have fallen short of their goals, but added that the goals themselves should still be sought.

Fond du Lac City Manager Myron Medin Jr. said his city's neighborhood and urban renewal projects are endangered by failure of the Nixon Administration to provide adequately for the transition from categorical aid programs to Special Revenue Sharing.

Medin also said he spoke for the Wisconsin Alliance of Cities in adopting the position of many urban leaders toward the Nixon budget. He voiced their fear that newly initiated General Revenue Sharing income will have to be spent by cities on programs formerly financed through other federal programs that are to end.

If that happens, said Medin, "The New Federalism ...has in actuality been a double-cross."

The public is requested not to call the First National Bank number, which was incorrectly listed on the Outagamie County Public Health Service schedule sheet and published in Thursday's Post-Crescent.

Prison closing called decoy

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The leader of the state senate Republican majority asserted Friday that Gov. Patrick Lucey's demand for the closing of three major corrections and treatment institutions is a "decoy" issue that will save less than 1 per cent of the state budget even if the Lucey economy estimate is accepted.

Sen. Raymond Johnson of Eau Claire, new leader of the senate Republican caucus that has the power to thwart the governor's controversial proposals, made the complaint to state capitol reporters who gathered at his invitation.

Johnson said that the proposed abandonment of the state reformatory at Green Bay, the state Child Treatment Center at Sparta, and the hospital for the criminal insane at Waupun are intended to divert attention from the size of his state budget and his "political engineering".

Even if no allowance is made for the maintenance of those institution populations elsewhere, he said, Lucey can claim savings of only about two-thirds of 1 per cent of his aggregate budget in the institution closings.

Johnson complained that the governor has incorporated so many organization and policy changes in his complex budget that for citizens or legislators to examine it critically is "like putting socks on an octopus." But he promised that the Republicans who have veto power in the legislature's upper house will examine it rigorously, notwithstanding.

He charged that the governor has hidden in his voluminous budget document fiscal proposals that will commit the state to higher installment payments for an indefinite future decade. He referred to expenditure proposals that Lucey has said are possible as a result of improved state treasury conditions, but which Johnson noted will be difficult or impossible to eliminate after they are written into law.

Johnson, who several years ago headed a legislative committee chosen to formulate an improved public welfare program, complained that the governor has proposed complete state control of public assistance programs now operated by the counties, without any explicit plan for welfare reforms.

He demanded less secrecy in welfare administration, an aggressive program of locating defaulting fathers to recover welfare expenditures made on behalf of their families, and a "watch dog" council on welfare expenditures which he noted is not the highest single category of state spending at more than half a billion dollars in the current budget proposal.

He said the senate Republican majority will offer a comprehensive welfare reform program as an alternative to the Lucey plans contained in the budget now being revived by a legislative committee.

Pacelli edges Xavier

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent Sports Editor

MILWAUKEE — Appleton Xavier's never-say-die Hawks scrambled back from the brink of disaster three times before ultimately being done in by free-throwing inaccuracy here Friday afternoon in the Wisconsin Independent Schools Athletic Association basketball tourney.

Stevens Point Pacelli (19-4) shaded Xavier, 56-54, in a state meet-opening thriller and will meet Racine St. Catherine (20-3) in this afternoon's semi-finals. The Hawks (17-6), who dropped their "state" opener for the fourth straight time, clashed with Beloit Catholic (14-10) in a 1:30 p.m. consolation bracket game today.

"Free throws were definitely the key factor," Xavier Coach Gus Laemmrich told the post-game press conference after reading aloud, somewhat painfully, the Hawks' 10-for-21 showing. "We've shot about 65 per cent from the line for the season. . .Today we were 48 per cent," said Laemmrich. The Cards, meanwhile, fired home 12 of 15 from the foul line for the winning margin. Each team recorded 22 field goals.

"We're better than we showed today," noted Laemmrich as he explained that the Hawks weren't "moving" on offense in the first half and had some defensive lapses against Pacelli's backcourt whiz, Paul Fix, in the second half.

"But," Laemmrich went on, "The kids really fought back and that's the sign of a good ball club."

The Hawks, indeed, never lost their cool, as they bounced back each time Pacelli seemed set to deliver the knockout punch. The first time came after the Cards had cruised to a 12-point lead (26-14) late in the second quarter. Xavier, with reserve Pat Verbrick supplying the spark, reeled off nine unanswered points in about 45 seconds to cut the Pacelli margin to three (26-23).

Score 8 straight

Then, after a counter-spurt by Pacelli that padded the lead to nine (32-23) at halftime, the Hawks, led by brilliant Joe Schneider, drilled eight successive third-period points to come within one of the Cards (at 32-31).

Again, Pacelli was stung into offensive action and built the game's biggest spread — 13 points (46-33) — with only 5 minutes to play. Xavier then came up with its blazing finish that just missed pulling out a miraculous win.

Schneider launched the bid with a tip-in basket and came through shortly thereafter with a pair of free throws — and the deficit was down to nine (46-37). Joe Fitzgerald added a pair of foul throws, but Fox countered with a lay-up. Schneider powered his way to the inside to score, but again Fix retaliated with a sensational twisting drive-in.

With 2:21 to play, Schneider swished a turn-around shot, and it was 50-43. After Jeff Hayes missed a free throw on the front end of a 1-and-1, Schneider came up with a steal and drove in to cut the Pacelli margin to five points. With 1:33 to go, Fitzgerald found the range from the baseline, and suddenly it was a 3-point game (50-47).

Kim Wisniewski interrupted with two Pacelli free throws at the 1:10 mark. Xavier's Tim Sullivan missed the first of a brace of free throws but made the second, and it was 52-48. The clutch-shooting Fix sank two from the line and the Cardinal lead was six with exactly 1 minute left. Eighteen seconds later, Sullivan hit from short range and the Hawks were within four.

The scrappy Verbrick tipped in a 2-pointer with 15 seconds left. The score was now 54-52 and the Arena was in an uproar. The Hawks had to foul in a desperate attempt to get the ball back, and Wisniewski was the recipient of two free throws with 6 seconds left. True to the Pacelli tradition this pressure-filled afternoon, Wisniewski sank both of them — and the issue was decided. The Hawks, however, gave it one final try, and Verbrick scored with one second left.

Fiery competitor

Fix, a clever ball handler, fiery competitor and excellent shooter, paced the victory with 20 points. He saved 14 of his points for the payoff quarter.

Schneider matched Fix for game honors with 20 points. He swished nine of 11 field attempts. In the first half, the Xavier ace attempted only two shots (making both) as the Hawks had trouble getting him the ball inside the Pacelli 1-2-2 zone. In the second half, Schneider broke loose for seven baskets.

Wisniewski and Dave Koraleski backed up Fix with 12 and 10 points, respectively. Fitzgerald also finished in double figures — with 10.

Xavier more than held its own on the boards with Pacelli's brawny front line. Schneider, Hayes, Wayne Griesbach and Verbrick came up with second and third shots more frequently than Pacelli was able to muster. Xavier battled its way to 10 more shots than the Cards (51 to 41) but settled for the same number of successes. Pacelli's shooting average thus was 53.7 per cent, while the Hawks' mark was 43.1 per cent.

Fitzgerald sank the first basket of the game — a 17-footer — and that was to prove Xavier's only lead. Fix' fast-break hoop, with 1:57 gone put the Cards ahead to stay. Pacelli's shooters were red-hot early, sinking 10 of the first 14 shots — most of them over Xavier's 2-3 zone — as the Cards ran up a 22-12 lead.

Xavier made defensive adjustments at half-time (coming back with a combination zone and man-to-man, and Pacelli was able to score only six points (three buckets) in the third period. During the second half, a more aggressive Xavier team outscored Stevens Point, 31-24.

Jumping jacks

The floor beneath the Appleton West basket was void of players when four of them took to the air for a rebound scrap during first half action in the Neenah Regional Tournament game against Appleton East, Friday night. Terrors involved are Carl Joosten (44) and Mike Brouillard (30). The only identifiable East performer is Paul Callaway (45). The Patriots earned the right to meet Oshkosh North for the regional championship when they downed the Terrors, 49-45, avenging an earlier loss. (Post-Crescent photo

Papermakers, Patriots advance

KIMBERLY — The DePere Redbirds and Kimberly High School Papermakers will meet for the regional basketball title here tonight after posting relatively easy victories Friday night.

Kimberly came back from a halftime deficit to hand Kaukauna a 73-50 setback while DePere was dealing Seymour a 57-46 loss in the opener of the two-game session.

Kimberly and DePere will go after the regional crown in a 7:30 p.m. contest.

Chuck Ruys propelled the Papermakers to a second half resurgence after Kaukauna took a 23-22 lead to the locker room at halftime.

Kimberly came back with a 20-point third period and held the Ghosts to 10 to decide the issue.

Up to that point the underdog Ghosts had given the Papermakers a stiff battle. It was 10-10 after one period of play and Kaukauna boosted the lead to 20-14 before Joe Berghuis and Bob Van Grinsven started to get the Papermaker attack in high gear. Kimberly began to close the gap at that point and then took command of the game after the intermission.

Ruys hits 11

In the third period, Ruys hit 11 of his 12 points of the geme to lead the Papermakers to the win. Kaukauna managed just three buckets in the period along with four free throws.

The final quarter saw the Papermakers completely dominate the game as they poured in 31 points and controlled the rebounds on nearly every occasion.

Coach Jack Wippich, of the Papermakers, cleared his bench in the final period to give everyone a chance to see action.

Nine players got into the scoring column for Kimberly. Ruys, Bob Van Grinsven and Joe Berghuis each had 12 points to share the top scoring honors. Randy Thiel added 10 while Lee Reider and Dave Albers had nine each.

For Kaukauna, Reed Giordana led the scoring with 25 points and Todd Luedtke finished with eight.

In the first game, DePere took advantage of a 16-8 scoring edge in the second period to wrap up the victory.

The Seymour Indians trailed by just two points at the end of the first period but then ran into a cold speel of shooting.

DePere was led by Jim Growt with 11 field goals for 22 points before fouling out in the final period, Bob Schuning had 16 points on eight field goals for the Redbirds.

Seymour's Paul Hoffman not only led the team in scoring with 21 points, but dominated the backboards as well.

Spartans stun Neenah, 71-69

By GEORGE MANCOSKY
Post-Crescent staff writer

NEENAH — Neenah's bid for a fifth straight state trip to the state high school basketball tournament ran into a roadblock — a roadblock of determination, hustle and staying power — thrown up by an unyielding and stubborn Oshkosh North High School squad here Friday night.

The Spartans, defeated twice by the Rockets this season, the last time by 23 points just two weeks ago, rudely dethroned the defending regional and sectional champions, 71-69, in the regional semi-finals. It had to go down as one of the all-time thrillers in the 17-year history of the Ole Jorgensen Gym.

North, now 5-15, thus earned the right to meet Appleton East tonight for the ticket to the Oshkosh Sectional. And for Neenah, it means they'll be missing from the sectional field for the first time in six years and absent from the state classic for the first time in five. The Twin Citians wrapped up their schedule with a 14-6 chart.

In the space of about one minute (from 1:15 to 14 seconds left to play) the upset, which had been shaping up since early in the third period turned into a reality.

The clock showed 1:15 when Nels Naslund connected on a layup to give the Spartans a 67-all tie. Then at the 45-second mark and with 14 seconds left, Jim Flood and Greg Boese, respectively, converted on one-and-one bonus free throw situations for a 4-point advantage, one that proved insurmountable for Coach Ron Einerson's athlets.

Five first period

The early going gave little advance notice as to what would happen later in the evening. The Rockets enjoyed a fine offensive first period, taking a 23-18 lead, and early in the second stanza they constructed their advantage to 29-20. At the same time, North's Naslund, a unanimous all-conference pick, was on the bench with three fouls.

About that time, the Northmen began to show the determination that was to characterize their effort the rest of the way. With a string of seven straight points, they bounced back into contention and only trailed, 36-34, at the half.

When North's Mike Reise tied the score with a hook shot at the start of the third frame, it marked the first time it had been on even terms since the opening jump ball.

The Spartans pulled into a couple of 4-point leads in the quarter but the Rockets fought back to tie the count twice and they were down, 54-52, going into what would be a wild fourth segment.

The last period started to resemble the third but with North ahead, 58-54, Neenah reserve Larry Madsen made four straight points, creating another stalemate.

Flood drove in for a layup, giving Oshkosh the edge again, but the Twin Citians came alive with their best spurt of the second half on a run of five points. It included Wayne Kreklow's free throw, a rebound goal by Madsen and a pair of gifters by Dick Smith for a 63-60 Rocket lead.

Ahead by 3

Naslund, who never did get his fourth foul, scored on a tipin but the fielder was answered by the Rockets' Roger Johnson, keeping Neenah ahead by three, 65-62, with 4:16 left.

Flood's single charity toss at 2:28 and a couple by Naslund at 1:52 again knotted the score at 65 but it was quickly broken when Ben Luebke made two free throws, giving the Rockets their final lead of the game.

Then came the events (North's six straight points) that were to shatter the Rockets' state tournament aspirations.

After Boese's final two free throws (71-67) the Rockets only had 14 seconds to make up the four points and it took them nine to get the first two, a rebound goal by Johnson, who had a tremendous game for the locals.

Neenah called its final time out immediately and when play resumed North had some difficulty getting the ball in play but finally did so and four seconds remained when Kreklow fouled Boese.

The husky Oshkosh cager missed the free throw and Johnson rebounded. The losers had trouble moving the ball up court and it was thrown out of bounds under the Neenah basket with one second left. North was given possession near mid-court and it merely took a throw in before the clock

KOHLER — Propelled by Dale Wundrow's 19-point output and the clutch rebounding of Rick Vander Wyst, Little Chute's Mustangs rolled to a 49-35 victory over Brillion in WIAA Class B regional action here Friday night.

With the win, the Mustangs (13-8) earned the right to play Howards Grove (9-9), a 70-55 winner over Sevastopol (8-10) in the Kohler Regional finale at 7:30 p.m. tonight. Brillion ends the season with a 10-10 log.

"The kids gave 110 per cent as far as I'm concerned," Lion Coach Richard Mauk said. "That's as much as I expect from them. I think the absence of two of our starters (Randy Zutz, who was ill, and 'Shorty' Biedenbender, who was dropped from the squad for disciplinary reasons) really hurt us."

The first quarter turned out to be a battle between defenses as LC emerged with an 8-6 lead going into the second eight minutes.

Wundrow hit two quick driving layups to begin the second period to provide the Mustangs with a 12-6 edge. Two goals by Brillion's Mark Waldecker, sandwiched around a Tim Fitzpatrick 10-footer, gave Little Chute a 14-8 lead with 4:15 left to be played in the period.

Dick Vanden Heuvel tipped in an errant shot and Fitzpatrick connected from short range as LCHS grabbed a 10-point (22-12) cushion near halftime.

Vander Wyst contributed two consecutive baskets with less than three minutes left in the third quarter to lift the Mustangs to a 32-18 advantage.

But Brillion battled back early in the fourth quarter behind the shooting of 5-8 sophomore Dale Behnke. The Lions started their last period rally by scoring seven straight points, five by Behnke and a pair by Tom Mullins to slice the deficit to 34-29.

During the next three minutes, however, Dan Fischer, who directed the offense and hauled down eight rebounds, committed his fifth foul, and Behnke left the game with a sore ankle.

"Vander Wyst's rebounding was definitely a big factor," Little Chute Coach Al Schmidt assessed. The 5-11 sophomore hauled down 14 rebounds during the contest, while Wundrow garnered 13 and Fitzpatrick grabbed 10.

"We didn't react well to their pressing defense and they came back early in the fourth quarter," Schmidt went on. "But after we adjusted, things went okay."

Schmidt also lauded the fine inside shooting of Wundrow.

Fitzpatrick was the other double figures scorer for the winners with 10. Waldecker paced the Lions with 12.

Little Chute converted on 18 of 41 shots from the field (43.9 per cent), while the losers hit 15 of 46 for 32.6 per cent. The Mustangs made 13 free throws in 16 tries, as Wundrow set the pace with seven conversions in eight attempts.
